Once Upon A Time We Lived Here

It's no fairy tale Harry Zoog is telling his two-year-old son, Harry, Jr. All that is left of his Sea Isle City home, is the foundation the boy is sitting on. Tides accompanying a storm struck this resort town early last month and carried the house out to sea. "I'd build back here tomorrow if they'd let me," Zoog said, "but I'd build higher this time."

—Move Will Bring Resistance—

34TH N.G. DIVISION CUT

Washington (AP)— The Army moved Wednesday to regroup its reserves drastically by reducing 4 National Guard and 4 Reserve infantry divisions into brigades and setting up a ready-to-fight force of 6 National Guard divisions.

The plan, which is subject to review by Congress, contains political dynamite because it treads on state pride and traditions linked to some of the units to be broken up.

The Army announced that 4 National Guard infantry divisions to be reconstituted into independent brigades are: the 34th of Iowa and Nebraska, the 35th of Kansas and Missouri, the 43rd of Connecticut, Rhode Island and Vermont, and the 51st of Florida and South Carolina.

Four Reserve divisions to be disbanded and their manpower reorganized in the same manner are:

The 79th of Pennsylvania, Delaware and Maryland; the 94th of Massachusetts, the 96th of Arizona, Idaho, Montana, Washington. Nevada and Utah; and the 103rd of Iowa, Minnestoa and Wisconsin.

The Army did not disclose the identity of the 6 priority divisions which will be tagged for callup first in event of a future emergency.

Stronger Force

The top priority 6 division force, intended to back up the 16 regular army divisions, will be maintained at 75 to 80% of strength as compared to 52 to 78% in the past.

Men of the 8 divisions being eliminated will be reorganized into 8 separate brigades — four National Guard and 4 Reserve.

They will range in size from 3,000 to 4,500 men grouped in 4 to 6 battalions each.

One thought back of the plan is that independent brigades could be filtered into divisions to beef up their strength.

The Army said its plan is "designed to improve the over-all combat readiness of the reserve components by increasing the strength, amount of equipment, and mobilization readiness of high priority units needed early in any call to active duty."

In Works a Year

The plan to reshape the reserves to achieve maximum readiness has been in the making for about a year.

It wss spurred by the experience in last year's Berlin crisis callup, which showed up weaknesses in the present organization in terms of equipping, training and manning units.

The Kennedy administration has proposed cutting paid drill strength of the Guard and Reserve by 58,000 from a total of 700,000.

Informed sources said this manpower cut would likely come out of elimination of certain obsolete units, such as antiaircraft gun batteries, and paring down of certain types of units of which there are more than are needed.

In this connection, the Army said it had made a study of its 8,800 Reserve and Guard units and that this "unit-by-unit comparison disclosed that certain types . . . no longer were essential, that excess number of some types were on hand, and that units of certain other types not now available were needed."

The Army plan, if put into effect, would reduce the number of national guard divisions to 23 —17 infantry and 6 armored.

Morrison Studies Cut; Erbe Acting

Iowa Gov. Norman Erbe planned immediate action in the wake of the Army's announcement that it would deactiviate the 34th National Guard Infantry Division, but Nebraska Gov. Frank Morrison said he would study the federal law governing guard units before commenting on the Wednesday announcement.

The 34th Division's 9,000 members are split between Iowa and Nebraska.

"I am not in favor of any one point proposed by the Department (of Defense)," the Iowa governor said.

"I am voicing this opinion in telegrams to President Kennedy, the Secretary of Defense, the Secretary of the Army, and the senators and representatives of Iowa," Gov. Erbe announced.

Weaver; 'Blunder'

Nebraska First District Congressman Phil Weaver, called the move "a serious blunder." Weaver is a member of the House defense appropriations subcommittee.

Weaver told The Star he had sent a telegram to Maj. Gen. Lyle Welch, Nebraska adjutant general, in which he promised:

"I am going to continue my fight this week and next during the markup of the defense bill to make sure adequate funds are contained in the bill to guarantee Guard strength at 400,000 men."

Lt. Col. Harlan C. Raymond, president of the Nebraska National Guard Association and a battalion commander within the 34th Division, said in Ogallala that it seemed hard to envisage that Congress would approve the elimination "of such a grand unit," and that the move seemed at variance with an announced determination to increase conventional forces.

Flood Sufferers Told: Responsibility Is Yours

By DON WALTON
Star Staff Writer

Norfolk — A U.S. Army Corps of Engineers spokesman Wednesday laid it on the line to 300 flood-battered residents of the Elkhorn River basin.

"The responsibility for the lack of a completed project to provide flood control for these cities rests at the doorstep of residents of those towns who have failed to act," Kenneth E. Ristau of Omaha said.

"The next step is up to you."

Ristau, Omaha district engineering division representative, noted that the Corps completed its proposed Elkhorn flood control plan in 1947.

It has been congressionally authorized since 1950, and funds were first made available in 1954, he pointed out.

Need Help, Money

What has been lacking, Ristau bluntly stated, is local cooperation, including a measure of local financing.

Meanwhile, Rep. Phil Weaver announced that he is proposing that the directors of the National Rivers and Harbors Congress urge President Kennedy to launch an accelerated national flood control program.

Weaver suggested that Kennedy substitute "a number of specific flood control projects and other resource development programs" authorized by Congress for his proposed $600 million public works emergency program.

The House Appropriations Committee—of which Weaver is a member—would act as a screening committee for the projects.

Weaver's proposal was revealed at Norfolk by his representative, John Quinn of Lincoln, who is a NRHC director and one of 7 members of its projects committee.

43 Counties Suffered

Col. D. G. Penterman, assistant adjutant general of the Nebraska National Guard, said 43 counties (and some 30 cities) appear to have suffered the most damage.

Ristau said that since 1950, flood control projects have been authorized at Norfolk, Pierce, Giles Creek from Tilden to the mouth, Battle Creek from Battle Creek to the mouth, West Point and Waterloo.

These projects would have produced federal costs at that time ranging from $64,000 at Waterloo to $1,628,000 at Norfolk. Local costs would have varied from $19,910 to $412,000.

Except for Pierce and West Point, these projects are all presently inactive "due to absence of local cooperation," Ristau said.

A later 1955 flood study at Norfolk showed costs of the project there had increased to $2,860,000 federal and $680,000 non-federal, he declared. Costs today would be "substantially more," Ristau said.

Damages without the project total almost $214,000 annually, the engineer noted, 95% of which could be eliminated.

One Of 3 Escapees Gives Up

Neligh (AP) — Dennis Kazda, 20, who escaped with his brother, Donald, 27, and Harry McGuire, 37, from the Kimball County jail Sunday night, surrendered Wednesday night to 3 farmers in the Oakdale community.

He made his surrender at 8:45 p.m. to Owen Evans, Keith Peterson and Richard Wagner.

Dennis told the farmers it had been 7 hours since he had seen his brother and McGuire and that he believed Gene and McGuire had split up.

Dennis said that when he last saw his brother, Donald was starting to swim across the Elkhorn River northeast of Oakdale.

Youth Wasn't Chicken, But He Got Singed

A boy with 3 serious burns on his arms boasted to a police officer that he had won a game called "chicken" all 3 times he played it.

The boy explained that the game is played this way: two boys hold their bare arms outstretched against each other, and a lighted kitchen match is inserted between them. The first boy to flinch is the "chicken," the loser.

Elderly Woman Burned In Tub

Eula D. McEwan, 83, of 1800 Pawnee, was in fair condition at Lincoln General Hospital Wednesday night, suffering from second-degree burns on her lower legs and feet, received when she accidentally knocked on the hot water faucet in preparing for a bath.

Lincoln police officers Delmar Carlson and Lyle Bigley said she finally was able to get out of the tub and walk to the phone in the next room to call for help.

The officers, upon arriving at the scene, had to break in a locked door when they couldn't find a key she had said was near the front door.

AAUP Will Push Probe On St. Onge

Lincoln Star Special

Washington —The American Association of University Professors will press on with its investigation of Henry St. Onge's cancelled Wayne State Teachers College contract, despite the Nebraska State Normal Board's decision to ignore an AAUP investigating team.

Robert Van Waes, a staff associate at the AAUP headquarters here said Wednesday that he would write a letter soon to the Normal Board, urging it to reconsider its decision.

The board recently told Wayne President William A. Brandenburg to ignore Van Waes' Mar. 19 letter to Brandenburg. The letter asked Dr. Brandenburg to set a day on which the AAUP investigating team might visit the Wayne president and Wayne faculty members.

Want Wayne Side

The investigators, who Van Waes said have already collected most of the facts in the course of a several months' inquiry, want to get the Wayne side of the case which might involve academic freedom.

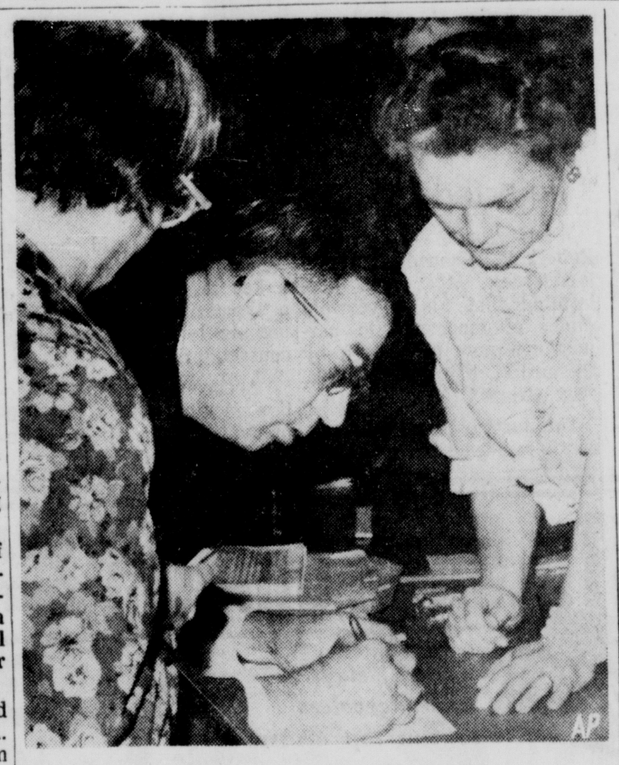

St. Onge is an Ohio State University English instructor whose contract with Wayne State for 1961-62 was voided by the Normal Board after he allowed a critic of the House Un-American Activitids Committee to speak in his back yard.

Van Waes said the AAUP regrets "that the state board has made the decision not to encourage investigation.

"Cooperation should be made available in the interests of the institution, higher education and the profession."

The investigation will continue this spring, he said, even if the board continues to resist.

No action such as censuring of Wayne or its president is expected at the AAUP's annual conference in Chicago April 27-28, he said.

WALKER . . . autographs for fans.

'Dark Forces Aid Commies' . . . WALKER TESTIFIES

Washington (AP) — Former General Edwin A. Walker told a Senate committee Wednesday that dark forces of "collaboration and collusion" with communism peril the United States. He accused a top Pentagon aide of helping the communists, and attacked other government officials from President Kennedy down.

The far-right ex-army man spent some 7 hours in the witness chair, and aimed his heaviest barrage at Adam Yarmolinsky, special assistant to Secretary of Defense Robert S. McNamara.

He said of Yarmolinsky:

"His connections with communism have certainly been close and his activities have aided communism."

Irresponsible

Yarmolinsky told a reporter Walker's charges were irresponsible. The defense aide said his pubiic record is one of fighting communism.

Walker said both he and the American way of life are victims of forces in "collusion with the international communist conspiracy."

The former officer said Yarmolinsky was one of the officials who made him a "scapegoat."

Nothing

Yarmolinsky said he had nothing to do with the Walker case.

Walker also suggested that a one-time ghost writer for former President Dwight D. Eisenhower would bear looking into.

As for the state of the armed forces, he said that with the nation's survival at stake they are "paralyzed by our national policy of 'no win' and retreat for victory."

His Fans

The big Senate caucus room was crowded with spectators, many of them Walker admirers, as the former major general came to defend himself against charges that he tried to sway votes of his troops in the 1960 elections, in violation of Army regulations.

The Army admonished the general, who was then in command of the 24th Division in Germany, and he later renounced his pension rights and resigned to battle in private life against forces that he said "endanger the security of our country."

Walker now is seeking the Democratic nomination for the governorship of Texas.

The tall ex-general showed a bit of tension as he read his 9,000-word prepared statement. His hands shook a bit at the start and he frequently stumbled over words — converting "subservient" into "subversient" for example, and "inequity" into "iniquity."

Walker's use of the word subservient was in connection with a denunciation of the press and other mass media. Government officials are knuckling under to the press, he said, but:

"The media men will not do much when the shooting starts—except write graphic accounts of the retreat."

Supporters Of Castro Break Up 'Death Watch'

Havana (UPI)—Castro supporters in civilian garb and shrieking "Fidel, Fidel" Wednesday attacked and broke up a "death watch" at Principe Prison by relatives and friends of war prisoners awaiting the verdict in their mass treason trial.

Shouting pro-Castro slogans and waving Cuban flags, about 300 men and women crossed Carlos Tercera Avenue to forcibly dislodge the group of 100 persons massed before the prison since the trial's start last Thursday.

There was no immediate indication of casualties or arrests. By early afternoon, however, the pro-Castro mob had swelled to about 500 persons, including some 60 women, apparently determined to prevent any popular reaction to announcement of the trial sentences.

The government has asked death or 20-year jail terms at hard labor for each of the 1,179 war prisoners being tried. The court-appointed defense counsel, repudiated by the prisoners, appealed to the 5-man military tribunal for "justice tempered with generosity."

There was no indication of when the sentences might be handed down but Premier Fidel Castro scheduled a speech to a mass rally of the Young Communist League and it was assumed he might then make first disclosure of the verdict.

It was expected the 3 invasion leaders—ex-military men Jose San Roman and Eneido Oliva and civilian Manuel Artime—would be dealt with harshly. The prosecution classified San Roman and Oliva, career army officers, as military men in the ousted Batista regime and characterized Artime as "a traitor to the rebel army and a thief of public funds."

The prosecutor denounced their "arrogance" before the court which, he said, was hardly becoming of the chiefs of an expedition, 90% of whose members surrendered their arms.

AEC Readies Testing Area

Washington (AP) — The Atomic Energy Commission set aside Wednesday a huge testing area in the Pacific Ocean in case the United States decides to resume nuclear tests in the atmosphere.

The commission said establishment of the 600-mile wide, 800-mile long area surrounding Christmas Island will become effective April 15 "in preparation for such actual tests as may be ordered later in the month."

"The establishment of the area," the AEC's announcement said, "is part of the preparations for testing which are going forward. A preparatory measure which the United States has always considered essential for the public safety in any test series is public warning several weeks in advance to mariners, aviators, and others who might be in or plan to use the testing area.

"The purpose is to assure that every person, even in remote places with infrequent communications, is warned well in advance of the proposed tests to remain clear of the area."

The AEC said official notices to mariners and aviators are being issued through normal operational channels.

AEC's announcement pointed out that on March 2, President Kennedy authorized the commission and the Defense Department to begin atmospheric nuclear tests in late April unless the Soviet Union signs an effective test ban treaty before that time.

3 Persons Die In 2 Accidents

Grand Island (UPI)—Three persons were killed in two separate motor vehicle accidents in the Grand Island area Wednesday.

John Roach, 74, and Fred Jackson, 64, were fatally injured when their car was in collision with another at an intersection at the north edge of town. They died about an hour after the accident in the emergency ward of a local hospital.

Charles Neal, 27, San Francisco, was burned to death when his truck caught fire after colliding with two automobiles. The accident occurred 5 miles east of here on U.S. Highway 30.

Roach and Jackson were in a car which turned into the intersection and struck a vehicle driven by Mrs. Ann Sober. She and her husband, Cornel, were taken to a hospital where their condition was described as serious. A child in the car was less seriously injured.

Roach was believed to be a former Omaha resident and Jackson was from Bruning, Neb., originally, officers said.

The accident which claimed Neal's life also sent a passenger in his truck to the hospital. Richard Schoenelder, about 35, Rochester, Minn., was reported in serious condition.

Patrolmen said the truck smashed into the rear of a car driven by Sophe H. Ruble, 25, Eugene, Ore., then went out of control and rolled over onto a car driven by William Elener, Aurora, Colo. Miss Ruble and Elener were treated at a hospital and released.

The deaths raised the 1962 Nebraska traffic toll to 60, compared with 68 on this date last year.

Body Of Girl Found Beside Stolen Truck

Alliance (AP) — The body of a 16-year-old girl was found Wednesday near a stolen truck which had left the highway and come to rest in a field.

Officers said the girl had been driving the truck. They theorized the vehicle may have gone out of control and that the girl jumped, only to be run over or struck by a rear wheel.

The girl was identified as Gurgis Gap of Porcupine, S.D. Officers said her head had been crushed and there were abrasions on her body.

The investigators, Safety Patrolman Mike Frerichs and Deputy sheriff Freddie Marsh, said the girl evidently was alone.

The truck was reported stolen in Alliance early Wednesday. The accident occurred on U.S. 385, 14 miles north of Alliance. A passing trucker discovered the truck in a wheat field and the body in a ditch about 5:30 a.m.

Douglas Disputes Huge Profit Charge

...In Nike Missile System Contracts

Washington (AP)—Figures presented at a senate hearing on missile contract profits were challenged by aircraft executive Donald Douglas Wednesday as "a gross distortion."

Douglas is head of the Douglas Aircraft Co., one of the major contractors in the development of the Nike anti-aircraft missile systems that have been installed around many U.S. defense areas.

Douglas

Robert E. Dunne, a Senate staff investigator, testified the Douglas firm received $45.58 million in profits on a series of Nike contracts after turning over much of the work to subcontractors.

Dunne said that based on the ratio of work done by subcontractors, the Douglas company's profit was the equivalent of 44.3%, although he said it figured out to 7.6% on all of the work performed by both Douglas and its subcontractors.

Says Only 3.2% on Sales

Douglas contended his company's profits in the Nike program amounted to only 3.2% of sales.

He contended the figures as presented before the Senate were "a gross distortion of the traditions and practices of all business."

By shifting economic frameworks, Douglas said, a fee of 5 or 6%, "which by all present economic standards is a quite proper fee," suddenly becomes "20 to 40 times greater without increasing one whit the dollars earned."

Douglas said this type of manipulation "borders on economic frivolity."

The subcommittee began hearings Tuesday into what Chairman John L. McClellan, D-Ark., calls profit pyramiding. This is a practice by which government contracts pass from one contractor to another, with each putting in a claim for profits and fees on top of the other's bill.

Douglas testified it takes costly specialized facilities, such as laboratories, wind tunnels, missile test stands and the like, to keep the United States ahead of potential enemies.

Big Profit on Trailers

Dunne also told how the government was charged for $11.47 million profit on a fleet of missile base trailers that cost a subcontractor $46.89 million to build.

"It may be legitimate, I don't know," McClellan said, adding "there may well be some explanation for it."

MRS. BURTON REASSURED BY HUSBAND

London (AP)— Friends said actor Richard Burton cabled his wife Wednesday assuring her of his love despite his public kissing with Elizabeth Taylor. He followed this up with a telephone call.

Burton

This cheered up the blonde, 32-year-old Mrs. Burton, who had been so upset by the news out of Rome that a doctor had to give her sedatives, the friends reported.

Another friend said Burton may fly home this weekend from Rome, where he is playing Anthony to Miss Taylor's Cleopatra on movie location.

Mrs. Molly Williams, wife of actor Emlyn Williams and a close friend of Mrs. Sybil Burton, told a reporter:

"I am sure Sybil has made no plans at all to go to Rome. . ."

Williams himself, who is Godfather to one of the Burton children, said he believed everything is fine between Burton and his wife.

"I just cannot imagine that Richard would throw his life away like this," he said. "They are exceedingly happy and he adores his daughters.

"It's not in his character to be involved in something like this."

Meanwhile, Miss Taylor came under fire of the Italian press and Vatican Radio for the breakup of her marriage with singer Eddie Fisher.

Hiss' New Claim Of Innocence Rejected By Atty. Gen. Kennedy

Washington (AP) — Atty. Gen. Robert F. Kennedy rejected Wednesday, Alger Hiss' declaration that his 11-year-old claim of innocence to perjury can now be proven by Richard M. Nixon's new book, "Six Crises."

The Justice Department recently reviewed the case carefully, Kennedy said, because of renewed controversy over a key issue — possession of a typewriter — but found nothing to substantiate Hiss' contentions.

"Accordingly no further action in this case is contemplated," said the attorney general's statement.

Fraternities' Responsibility Is Emphasized

"Many students don't realize that when you become a member of a fraternity or sorority at college, aside from the many rights and privileges you gain, you give up the right to act freely as an individual."

This was the statement Wednesday night of Harold Angelo, dean of men at the University of Colorado, speaking at a Greek Week Convocation on the University of Nebraska campus.

Dean Angelo told more than 1,000 sorority women and fraternity men:

'Your every action reflects on the fraternity or sorority to which you belong. You have a big responsibility to live up to, not only as an individual but as a member of a group."

Audience Warned

He warned his audience that they have let individuals put them on the spot where they "could not speak from strength, but must put all this strength into defending themselves.

"If they can't be disciplined, kick 'em out," he urged.

"You must work together. Where change will offer something better, accept it, encourage it, work for it."

Other events slated to take place during the remaining 3 days of Greek Week, which started April 1 with open houses at all the sororities and fraternities, are: Thursday, housemothers' tea; Friday, street dance in front of the Nebraska Union; and Saturday, multiple sclerosis drive and an Inter-Fraternity Ball.

NU Officials Check Hotel; No Decisions

A group of University of Nebraska officials visited the Capital Hotel Wednesday afternoon looking into the possibility of using it for student housing.

According to William Harper, director of University services, no decision has been made. But he did say that "not more than 4 floors" would be involved if the University and hotel officials agreed on a student housing plan.

If the hotel were to be used for students it would be for the school year beginning this September, he said.

The University has considered looking into the possibility of also using the Lincoln Hotel for housing but that hotel has not been visited, he said.

Those making the inspection besides Harper were Frank Hallgren, associate dean, division of student affairs; Mrs. Jane Eller, assistant to the dean, division of student affairs; Dr. Samuel Fuenning, director of the University Student Health Center; and Edward Simpson, public health enginer, University Student Health.

Tax Consolidation Could Hike Burden On Residential Property

By VIRGIL FALLOON
Star Staff Writer

Lincoln residential property owners would be asked to vote themselves a greater share of the city tax burden under a tax consolidation proposal favored by some groups.

This is one of the key marks of resolutions passed by a committee of the Chamber of Commerce and the Lincoln Chamber Industrial Development Corporation. The groups propose abandoning dual assessment of property by the city and county in favor of a single assessment by the county.

Argued is that a single assessing office would save administrative expense and would be more convenient for city taxpayers. The equality of city assessment has also been attacked on the basis that the city assessed valuation on business property is proportionately higher than the county's as between business and residential property.

Business Reduced

An independent study has concluded that the use of county assessment figures would increase city taxes on residential property "by more than 10%, while nearly all of the reductions would occur on business property."

'These changes would not be so minor," the study parenthetically states, "as to preclude serious reaction on the part of the taxpayer."

More plainly stated, residential property owners, constituting the largest voting bloc, may not agree to a 10% or more shift of taxes on business property onto themselves.

The city tax commissioner's assessed valuation on Lincoln real estate is $153,780,265 — or about 15% higher than the county assessor's $133,703,780.

Wider Variation

The variation as between the two basic classes of property — business and residential — is wider.

The 1960 independent study and a sampling of city and county valuations indicated these variations:

—city assessed values on downtown business property was 32% higher than the county's.

—city assessed values on a sampling of residential properties was 17.5% higher than the county's.

These are averages based on dollar valuations. On individual business properties, picked at random for the sample, the city was higher on 80 while the county assessed 40 higher. On the residential sampling, the city was higher on 30 and the county on 19.

No Agreement

Perhaps the only conclusion to be drawn is that no two appraisers agree on the value of an individual property. But there is no deduction to be gained as to which one is more often right or which one is more often wrong.

Both County Assessor Arthur M. Davis and City Tax Commissioner William Schlaebitz firmly believe their assessments are equalized between properties.

Davis explains that the county's assessed valuations are equalized on the basis of the 1954 county-wide reappraisal made by an appraisal firm for the county.

He explains that city business property is equalized at 31.5% of the 1954 reappraisal, city residential at 27% and rural at 32.5%.

Schlaebitz says the city's assessed valuations are 35% of appraised actual value as required by state law.

Same Requirements

Both assessors use the same requirements set forth by state law in making property assessments. These include the property's earning capacity, location, desireability and functional use, reproduction cost less depreciation, comparison with other properties, and market value in ordinary course of business.

As appraisers may vary in the emphasis they place on these factors in determining a valuation, it is often thought "sale price" may be a more reliable guide. It isn't.

On one downtown property, recently sold for over $2 million, the city's appraised value was $1.4 while the county's was $1 million.

In contrast, the city had a $30,000 appraisal on one residential property while the county had $60,000. The property was sold for $165,000 to make way for a new high-rise apartment building.

On another which sold for $105,000, the city had $116,000 appraised and the county $109,000.

County Higher

Another property, razed for a new office building, sold for $62,500. The city's appraised value was $50,285; the county's was higher at $53,735.

Schlaebitz doesn't feel there is any conflict between the city's and the county's assessed valuations.

"Art Davis and I are serving separate functions," Schlaebitz rationalizes. "The county assessor must equalize all property within the county with an eye to what 92 other counties are doing."

'My job," he continues, "is to serve the city and to equalize the property within the city to best of my judgement and experience."

Mayor Pat Boyles agrees that dual assessment "is perhaps silly," but cautions numerous problems must be solved before any consolidation could be effected.

"If the city were to use the county's assessment figure," he emphasizes, "there should be a complete reappraisal jointly supervised by the city and county."

Space Age's Contrasts Hit City Briefly

Lincoln was a city of "space-age" contrasts around 10:20 p.m. Wednesday night.

A burglar alarm at Paramount Laundry & Cleaners, 837 So. 27th, bellowed out a resounding clang.

The Lincoln Police Dept. switchboard buzzed as calls poured in.

The phone at the LAFB air police office also began to jangle incessantly.

Boom's Results

These were the results of a sonic boom as the Air Force B58 Hustler bomber passed overhead on its nightly run. The city was undeniably aware of its brief but noisy presence.

Most of the city, however, was not aware that, at that same time, an Atlas Intercontinental Ballistic Missile, loaded on a huge trailer and accompanied by police escort, began to weave its quiet way through the city to temporary storage at the air base.

Shortly afterward, everything was quiet again. No windows rattled. No traffic, light though it was, was restricted. The brief visit of two of America's most powerful "space age" weapons was forgotten almost as quickly as it had been noticed.

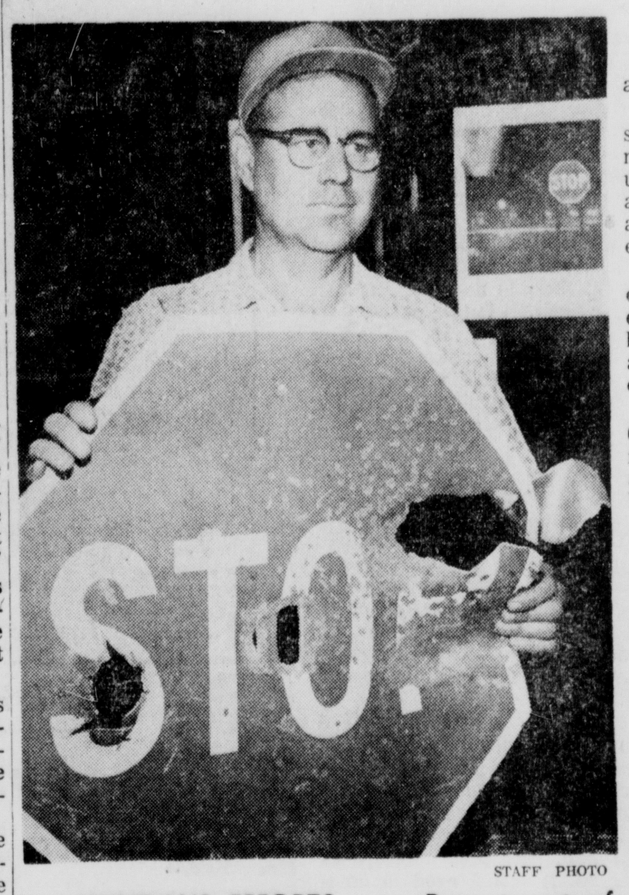

Man Injured In Hit-Run Collision

Paul E. Ziegler, 25, of 1220 D, was released after treatment for a head cut at a local hospital Wednesday night after the car in which he, his wife and baby were riding was struck from the rear by another vehicle which then left the scene.

The accident occurred just north of the Burlington railroad tracks on North 27th. Lancaster County Deputy Sheriffs William Jones and Norman Monroe said the Ziegler car was southbound when it was struck and spun around in the road before coming to a stop.

Neither Mrs. Ziegler nor the baby were injured, according to Jones and Monroe.

Sign Vandals Costly— Yearly Bill $30,000

A highway sign may save a life in time.

Or, it may cost one, observed Nebraska traffic engineer Bob Meyer, commenting upon vandalism of signs along Nebraska's highways—a problem faced by almost every state.

"Every year around $50,000 of taxpayers' money goes down the drain in replacing highway signs due to gunfire and vandalism," he pointed out Wednesday.

Each year, more than 15,000 signs have to be replaced for one cause or another, about one-third being attributed to outright vandalism.

Used as Targets

Meyer said that one of the prime factors in vandalism is shooting at highway markers, especially in areas where hunting is popular.

"It's easier to use signs as targets rather than bottles—and a lot of people do," he explained.

Another cause of concern to highway officials is removal of markers, which in some cases may cause loss of life or property damage as a result of car accidents.

"That's real serious," Meyer said.

Recently, an unknown party broke and bent 28 reflectors in a row along the Interstate Highway, causing grave danger to night drivers.

The traffic chief also reported that 45 "Welcome to Nebraska" signs were erected several years ago and within a year and a half, all of the $125 units had to be thoroughly overhauled.

Most are Hit

Only one in every 15 signs is not the target of vandals.

In the event of wiful removal or damage to highway signs, the law is specific and imposing. Culprits may be imprisoned for up to 30 days and fined $100.

Also plaguing highway crews are the local "strong men" who vent their willing muscles on markers they have torn down.

"Many signs have been so abused that it is impossible to repair them," Meyer added.

State Vetoes Peace Corps

By WILLIAM O. DOBLER

In far corners of the world, young Americans are giving up a good slice of their lives to promote the cause of peace and the principles of democracy. There are now some 700 of these volunteer workers in 12 different countries and in the near future there will be 6,700 of them scattered throughout the continents. But their numbers won't grow due to any help from Nebraska. The entire Nebraska delegation in the House voted against an increase in funds for expanding the Peace Corps.

Fortunately, the measure passed just the same and by a lopsided vote of 316 to 70 and another $30 million was added to the funds available for training, transporting and supporting the Peace Corps. It is very doubtful that the vote of Nebraska's delegation expressed the majority opinion of this state. Nebraskans probably are no more overjoyed than anyone else at the prospect of adding $30 million to the federal budget but we are not a penny-wise-and-pound-foolish people. The Peace Corps has been recognized by statesmen and political leaders on both sides of the aisle as one of the greatest things initiated by the current administration.

Not The State's Opinion

It was one of the few things endorsed by Sen. Barry Goldwater in his appearance last week here in Lincoln. He seemed to be confident that it holds great promise for the future and his feelings are shared by many people throughout the world. In lands where corps members have been placed, their reception has been enthusiastic.

The response from foreign nations has been so great that corps members are in demand far in excess of this nation's present ability to supply them. When the philosophy behind this program and its comparatively modest cost are understood, it is difficult to see how the Nebraska delegation could take such a unanimously negative position.

If the Nebraska group is an example of the philosophy that guides the Republican party, it is no wonder that its minority position in the nation is a matter of concern to thoughtful party leaders. It will most certainly remain a minority and could even slip to that in staunchly Republican Nebraska if it maintains this sort of pace. The Peace Corps is an outstanding investment in the ideals of freedom and in the worth of the individual. It is an idealistic undertaking but one that will pay off in concrete dividends. It serves the dual purpose of promoting the cause of freedom while elevating the standard of living of people in less fortunate circumstances than our own.

The volunteers who carry out the program are mainly young people who have agreed to give up the easy life that is theirs for the asking here and to do so without anything beyond subsistence pay. It is not the kind of job that pays such a big salary that it permits the individual to return home with a bundle of cash for a big plunge into business or industry. It is not even an experience that will particularly qualify its participants for any special kind of work. It will make them finer men and women but there is no dollar sign on the venture for them. It is the biggest bargain in foreign affairs that this nation has ever obtained but the Nebraska delegation is so dead to the state of world affairs that it wouldn't see a bargain if spelled out before them in glowing neon lights.

These young people in foreign lands under the Peace Corps program are giving to others the skills and understanding that will permit them to become a constructive and useful part of the world. They are teaching in the schools, staffing the hospitals, working at the drawing boards and in the field, administering affairs of state and doing a wide variety of other things to build the human capability that is needed for progress.

The cost of all this is well under $2 a year for every American family. If the Nebraska House delegation believes this is excessive for what is offered, then it might as well record itself as opposed to everything in advance and come on home to hit the campaign trail. With such a record as it is chalking up, it should need to campaign vigorously.

Last week the delegation joined all but one other House Republican member in an unsuccessful attempt to kill an administration tax bill which would go a long way toward equalizing the tax burden at the federal level and stimulate the economy to eventually provide an increase in taxes. This was, or now is, a sound fiscal program but this time the Nebraska delegation didn't stand in favor of prudent economics. Thus, the position of the delegation, to our way of thinking, lacks both consistency and intelligence. But perhaps it believes simply that we should abandon our position of influence and leadership in the world and slip back into the comparative international oblivion of colonial days.

A Vote Against Tax Bill

If Nebraska cannot support the Peace Corps, one might well wonder what the state would support and what its answer might be to the securing of freedom around the world and the spread of democratic ideals. It is an answer, of course, that neither our House nor Senate representation ever tries to figure out.

Improvement In Procedures

State purchasing would be substantially improved with adoption of the rules and regulations drafted by the Standards and Specifications Committee. The rules and regulations are described as nothing more than a compilation of existing practices and there is no justification for questioning of the statement at this point.

It was noted, however, and quite properly, so, that the writing down of the rules and regulations will contribute to the elimination of any possible confusion about procedures. Also, written establishment of these rules and regulations will give assurance that practices which have been questionable in the past will not be taken up again in the future.

The rules and regulations adopted are a far cry from "the most for the least for the state" philosophy which dominated the purchasing department during the first half of Gov. Frank Morrison's administration. This was a dangerous attitude to take because it permitted the department to completely abort the standard bidding system used by other governments.

And while the department is now following the outline contained in the written rules and regulations, this was not the case last year. The lack of such a set of standards was a definite factor in permitting an operation in purchasing which was not to the best interests of the state of Nebraska. It is hoped that, after its scheduled public hearings, the Standards and Specifications Committee makes the new rules and regulations an integral and binding part of the state's operation.

On Land Diversion

Secretary of Agriculture Orville Freeman envisions the conversion ultimately of 50 million acres of crop land to non crop uses through public and private effort. This, he believes, would bring productive acres in line with national food needs and end many of the adverse features of the presently ill and over-stuffed farm economy.

The secretary foresees the creation of grass land and forests, rural renewal prograss lands and forests, rural renewal procally placed game and recreational areas resulting from watershed conservation.

This is a hopeful plan on paper, but the secretary would do well to make a deep study of the economics of the matter. It has some of the earmarks of the ill-advised Soil Bank program. At the heart of it is the fact that the land is privately owned and considered necessary to the owner as earning acreage. If the land is tied up for non-crop purposes then it must be for a fee and the fee must be provided so long as the service is maintained.

When the Soil Bank program was established under Secretary Benson it found a measure of popularity among farm owners. But the Soil Bank required an annual public payment for non producing land from $10 to $15 an acre for a contracted period of years. Obviously at the end of the contract period the public money had been spent, but the land continued under title of the owner and again became subject to cropping. At best such a program provides only temporary production relief at considerable public expense without removing the basic production problem. Had the department invested the same amount of money in the outright purchase of farm land it would not only have had something to show for its effort, but would have contributed in a measure to the permanent solution of farm overproduction.

The Motive Is The Cause

Lewellyn Thompson, U.S. ambassador to Moscow, feels that Russia is more ready for serious arms talk than heretofore, and this implies that regardless of the sterility of the recent efforts at Geneva, the next effort may be rewarding.

Perhaps and perhaps not. In Mr. Thompson's own words the Russian attitude is not based on an ethical desire for peace but rather on a need to relieve itself of some of the economic burdens of the arms race. In short, it wishes to preserve its military stance by slowing others so that it may turn for a while to other needs. This is not the stuff out of which real disarmament is made. It is only a maneuver for position.

When the issue of disarmament is taken to pieces for a close examination of its mystery, it is found to have very little to do with bombs and rockets, satellites and armies. Adjusting the size and number of these will never get at the cause.

The cause is, in reality, the communists' sworn and always manifest vow of total aggression. So long as they work at the destruction and conquest of all other societies until there are none left there is no real basis for disarmament. But the minute that aggression is renounced meaningfully and proved by deeds most of the problems of disarmament will disappear.

The United States co-exists with numerous other nations having alien forms of government and social structures remote from the kind employed here. The existence of these nations does not force the manufacture of a single gun or bomb because those nations pose no threat to world justice or security. So it would be largely with the communists if they were equally pacific in respect to the rights and sovereignty of other nations.

Rusk Returns To State Tasks

WASHINGTON—Dean Rusk has now become secretary of state again. While he was in Geneva attending the disarmament conference, the real secretary of state was none other than John F. Kennedy.

There was almost no detail JFK did not handle. He personally checked on state department staff work, conferred with State Department subordinates, made decisions on individual countries. He even got involved in State Department personnel problems.

Kennedy was also on the trans-Atlantic telephone to President De Gaulle in Paris and Prime Minister Macmillan in London—which, however, is not unusual. He phones the heads of states in NATO countries, including Chancellor Adenauer, more than any other American president. In this case, he conferred with De Gaulle about the Algerian crisis.

In addition, Kennedy was on the telephone to Rusk in Geneva on every important move and ordered him to wait in Geneva for the new Berlin pro posal being radioed by Foreign Minister Gromyko. It turned out to be a rehash of past proposals.

The public didn't know it, but Kennedy also handled personally the demand of Chang Kai-shek that he be allowed to invade the Chinese mainland. With Chinese unrest increased by the food shortage, Chiang claimed the time was ripe. Kennedy considered this carefully, finally decided the risk of precipitating World War III was too great. Instead he ordered a close watch on Chiang to make sure he doesn't attempt an invasion without U.S. help.

It was also the President who made the decision to call Ambassador Everett Drumright hastily home from Formosa before the State Department papers were published on past U.S.-Chinese relations. They are somewhat embarrassing.

Kennedy also studied economic and political reports on every Latin-American country and even got into the act as to whether President Goulart of Brazil should address a joint session of Congress. He also read the latest intelligence reports on the growing crisis in Iran and decided to bring the Shah to Washington for a hurry-up visit to bolster the Shah's sagging rule.

All in all it was a busy three weeks for JFK. Now that Secretary Rusk is back, Kennedy is turning a little of the detail back to him.

Rebellion Greets GOP Leadership

WASHINGTON — Sen. Bourke Hickenlooper of Iowa has flunked his first test as chairman of the Republican Senate conference. A hard core of his conservatives who dislike the United Nations has rebelled against the agreed compromise on the U.N. bond issue and thrown the outcome into doubt.

The administration still has the votes to pass it, but then it had the votes to pass the original bond proposal. That isn't all it wants. It wants a big margin which Senate conferees can wave in the face of a reluctant House.

The rebellious Republicans argue that the compromise is not a real compromise at all but a surrender, and there is some substance in their claim. Nonetheless, they can't win in the Senate and they have probably scared their own side in the House.

For what they have done is to put the right-wing brand on hostility to the proposal in any form. This is a minority position, dangerous at best, and the more so because polls show that the public heavily supports the international peace forum. Moderate Republicans understand this and will not want to appear to be following a right-wing leadership on the issue.

☆ ☆ ☆

The party was in a safe position when its liberals, marshalled by Sen. George Aiken of Vermont, attacked the Kennedy proposals. It was the view of Minority Leader Everett Dirksen, always astute in these matters, that even an undesirable compromise was necessary to keep it safe.

He was taken by surprise, as was Hickenlooper, at the bitterness of feeling revealed in the caucus. That bitterness was revealed by the rebels with unusual frankness.

Things have not been going well for them, it is true. Just before they walked into the caucus they had seen Wall Street Journal headlines suggesting that the Democrats might spring an upset this year and increase their power in the first off-year election of the Kennedy regime.

☆ ☆ ☆

National Chairman William Miller figures that such stories cost the party campaign contributions, even if they are not true. A large body of opinion which thinks they are true has been gathering recruits in unexpected places.

This is not the first instance where the more conservative part of the minority has shown dissatisfaction with Dirksen's flexibility. Generally, Republicans have been responsive to his plea that his is the only course to follow when so badly outnumbered.

Best estimates set the strength of anti-U.N. forces in the Senate at not more than 20 votes. It is believed that another dozen or 15 can be picked up when the proposition is so wrapped up as to disguise hostility to the U.N. as such.

Architects of the compromise have been rushed to the Hill from the White House and State Department. The President must ask himself whether he should count his birds in the hand now instead of risking further confusion. The Republican leadership has some red faces to save.

THEY WALKED WITH CHRIST

The Leper

"And, behold, there came a leper and worshipped Him, saying, Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean." —Matthew VIII:2

When Jesus healed the sick, He used no strange nostrums, hocus-pocus, or histrionics that might enhance His reputation. His cures rested upon simple faith.

"Believe ye that I am able to do this?"

And when the suffering truly believed, as did this nameless leper, they were healed.

The Bible tells us nothing of the background of the leper whom Jesus made clean by a touch. Nothing of his life before he was struck down by leprosy—shunned by all men and ravaged by the terrible disease that slowly ate its way through his tissues into the very marrow of the bones, rotting his body piecemeal.

But there is an apocryphal account of the conversation between this man of shining faith, and Jesus.

It is said that when Jesus paused at the leper's greeting to Him outside the gateway to the city that day, the afflicted man saw in the face of the stranger the sincere kindness of a friend.

"Master, you are kind," he told Jesus. "And kindness is Truth, and Truth is God. I have found the meaning of this in the desert in a sudden shade, and in a cup of water. I have found it in the song long ago buried in my heart. But never before have I found it in a Man."

Jesus met the gaze of the sick man. Unlike others who drew away in repulsion and fear at his disfigured state, Jesus saw past the hideous mask of disease into the man's heart and soul. In the tortured face He saw trust and gladness.

"I understand thy loneliness," He answered, "for I, too, have known the rejection of men. My loneliness is sorrow that I cannot gather all into the Revelation of the Father's love, which I have known."

As Jesus spoke, the leper, exalted in his thoughts, memorized the line of His face and of His body. In a surge of faith, reinforced by love, he cried:

Lord, if thou wilt, thou canst make me clean."

"And Jesus put forth his hand and touched him, saying, "I will; be thou clean."

And the leper's affliction vanished. He was never again to suffer the anguish of the exiled and the defeated.

He had glimpsed the way of liberation.

Seaton Record

Howells, N. J.

The Hastings publisher and former secretary of the interior, Mr. Seaton, has now become one of the less esteemed men along the roads and byways of Nebraska. If he really means to run again, and campaigns, his record of contrariness to the best interests of this Midwest farming state must be observed.

As senator, an appointee of Peterson, he voted against the bills that were intended to help progress. As a secretary, he opposed the high single dam at Hell's Canyon and yielded all prerogatives to an aggressive financial cabal and remained silent about the fact that the promoters of the three puny dams idea were not local men, at all, but mostly speculators and those working for the greater lumber, mining and power trusts morning and night.

We need a commoner in there, one with the background of family pride, pride for honesty, brains, decency and morals.

Student Response

Lincoln, Neb.

Those of us who were around in mid-April of 1952 will recall the mountains of water of the Missouri that threatened to deluge Blair, Omaha, Peru, Nebraska City and other lower river cities. A tremendous volume of water from snow banks and attendant rainfall in northeastern Nebraska and northwestern Iowa rushed swiftly down the wide flood plains of the big river.

The thousands of men who had been containing the river within its banks were becoming completely exhausted. Late the evening of Tuesday, April 15, an alumnus of the university hit upon the idea that some of the students might be willing to help.

I was then dean of student affairs at the university. Before six next morning, I had telephoned every fraternity and independent men's rooming house and told of the urgent need. By daylight nearly 200 were on their way to Omaha. We continued to urge those physically able to go immediately to Omaha, prepared to stay several days, and by Thursday morning, 800 students were helping to contain the rampaging river within its banks.

When the "Muddy Mo" finally reached its crest of 31.6 feet — 12 feet above flood stage — over 1,000 university students were engaged in filling sandbags and putting them in various dikes. A 12-foot dike was built around Omaha's pumping station. Many of the students who were in the first contingent worked from 60 to 72 hours without rest and until the crest had passed Omaha. Many of the university's young women volunteered for service with the Red Cross canteens, for it was a tremendous job to feed the thousands engaged in saving property and lives.

Scarcely had the crest passed Omaha when I received a request from Peru and Nebraska City for 500 volunteers. Again the response was most gratifying.

There were many experiences, I am sure, about which our valiant student flood workers will enjoy telling their grandchildren, such as being marooned on a barge below Nebraska City, sleeping in hotel lobbies, YMCA halls, Salvation Army canteens, etc. Above all, they can say that they helped stop the ravaging waters from doing severe damage to the Omaha, Peru and Nebraska City flood areas.

I had long since learned of the attitude of generosity which students have toward those in distress, but their response in this instance was beyond all expectation.

Liz Taylor

Lincoln, Neb.

We, along with the rest of the country, are getting more than a little sick of the antics and marital complications of Liz Taylor. Surely some of the daily volumes of news space being devoted to her could be better used in other ways.

A typical product of the Hollywood influence, she has shocked even that shockproof world of make-believe. One wonders how one human being can get so completely mixed up in values, morals and everything in life that is worthwhile.

Even Rome is tiring of her, both personally and in whatever news value her doings have. They are turning their backs on her, wishing she would go home. We're not in Rome, but let us also do as the Romans do.

I sincerely want to thank The Star for the spiritual blessing given me through the recent articles published, "They Walked With Christ." Many of these Biblical characters I have known very little about, so I have appreciated the information given concerning the lives of these godly men and women.

I am glad The Star considers articles of this nature of sufficient importance to print and hope material of this kind wil continue to be published.

Favors Drys

Omaha, Neb.

We should make Lincoln dry. If alcohol were eliminated, we would get rid of 75 per cent of the derelicts, those who don't have jobs or just work sometimes. Such people will not stay where there are no saloons or bottle clubs and to get rid of them is to reduce all phases of crime.

To dry Lincoln, there would be no bootlegging, no stills, no home brew and no liquor shipped in. We have the churches and drys on our side.

English Clubs Meet Basic, Human Need To Belong

By ROBERT PETERSON

Although I don't espouse gambling, I noted with interest a recent news story from England about Mrs. Connie Arundell, a 54-year-old widow and grandmother living in suburban London. Seems she was bored and lonesome rattling around a house too large for her needs.

So when recent legislation was passed permitting gambling among club members, she turned her first floor into a "Gambling and Social Club." Today she's up to her ears in new friends and social contacts, thanks to some 90 neighbors including a lot of retirees—who have met her standards for membership.

She states that most members gamble very little and seem attracted to the club largely because it fulfills the human need to belong and have a friendly place to go when you want to get out of the house.

In this country they'll toss you into the clink if they find any gambling on your premises. But there's no reason why people along in years can't start private clubs in their homes built around less controversial diversions — such as chess, pinochle, art, or music—which may trigger new fun and camaraderie for founders and members.

"You write as though everyone past 65 is poor," says a reader. "You talk about living in retirement hotels for $95 a month, stretching your pensions, and share-the-cost auto vacations. We're just average folks but we've always been thrifty and today in our 60's have retired with an assured income of $750 a month. There must be thousands just like us who are less interested in scrimping than in having a good time."

There may be thousands like you, but there are millions unlike you who are squeezing by on skimpy pensions and don't receive in a year what you reap in a month or two. Those in upper income brackets shouldn't have too much trouble chasing new adventures and living excitingly. But it's not so easy if circumstances have somehow resulted in your reaching old age with just $113 a month — which the U.S. Dept. of Health, Education and Welfare tells me is their current estimate of the "Median cash income of non-working men past 65."

A reader William Rogers writes that he recently bought some roofing materials and happened to ask an 84-year-old man in the village if he knew anyone who could fix his roof for him. The octogenarian said he'd like nothing better than to bring his ladder and hammer and do it himself. Rogers says he was shocked at the thought of a man that age climbing around on the roof, "but he insisted on doing it and I must say he did a nice job." All of which goes to prove that modern elders aren't always as helpless and frail as we tend to collectively label them.

Which word best symbolizes retirement today? When this query arose at a recent retirement conference the most popular nominations were: hammock, pension, fishing, leisure, hobby, and, of course, Florida.

Philosopher Sam Himmel says, "There are a lot of good books telling how to manage when you retire. What I'm looking for is one that tells how to manage until."

If you would like a booklet "R... to Mexico" write to this col c/o The Lincoln ... stamped, self-addressed envelope and 10 cents to cover handling costs.

Girl, 9, Averts Wreck

Belgrade (AP) — Walking the ties on Yugoslav railways is forbidden, but 9-year-old Tamida Andonova is going to get some sort of reward as a heroine for doing it, the newspaper Politka reports. She took to the ties because the footpath was flooded, and she discovered a broken rail, notified a working crew and thus saved an express train from being wrecked, the paper said.

Hurlbut Starts Assignment As Consultant In Egypt

Alexandria, Egypt—A University of Nebraska agricultural engineer has started a 2-month assignment here as consultant for Egypt's Ministry of Agriculture and the University of Alexandria.

In a letter to Nebraska associates, L. W. Hurlbut said "this assignment will provide ample opportunity to learn agricultural engineering developments in a populous country entirely dependent on irrigated agriculture."

Hurlbut is on leave as chairman of Nebraska's Department of Agricultural Engineering. He was accompanied to the Middle East country by his wife.

The assignment with the Food and Agriculture Organization includes evaluating teaching and research activities in the University of Alexandria Department of Agricultural Engineering. He also will review co-operative efforts between the university and the Ministry of Agriculture.

While in Egypt, Hurlbut will work with various University and governmental officials in developing a farm equipment testing center.

Education Rolls Along

Chicago (UPI) — Following a month's trial use of two mobile classrooms, the Chicago Board of Education approved plans to spend $1.3 million for 150 of the units. The units are expected to be in operation by May, relieving crowded classrooms, double shifts and meeting needs of a shifting school population.

Low Parity Prices Hit By Report

By GLENN KREUSCHER
Farm Editor

Nebraska farmers are losing more than $1 billion yearly because of below-parity farm prices, a Nebraska Wheat Growers Assn. (NWGA) report will contend when it is released shortly.

The report further contends the Nebraska economy loses $7 billion yearly because of the farm income loss, basing it on the theory that $1 in farm income creates $7 in state income as it passes from hand to hand.

Carl H. Wilken of Washington, D.C., director of research for the National Foundation for Economic Study, and Dana Cole & Co. of Lincoln prepared the study.

'Shock State'

"The report will shock Nebraskans and will for the first time spell out some of the problems we face as a state," says C. H. Kreader of Lincoln, NWGA executive secretary.

Wilken contends the state will lose an average of $2 per person per day if parity prices are not secured for farmers.

He bases his theory on units of production times price to create income. Wilken said the nation fails to realize that when agriculture is underpaid by one percent of parity, the nation suffers a 5 billion loss in national income.

Wilken said the economy of the United States would collapse if farm price supports are abandoned.

Mongolia Looking Up

Tokyo (AP) — In Red China's Mongolia, many people now have radios, fountain pens, sewing machines, clocks and more than one suit of clothes, the New China news agency says. Things are so advanced the agency reported, peasants have bank accounts.

Appointed officers are: Howard Spahnl, esquire; John Love, chaplain; Donald Betts, inner guard; Stanley Capps, organist.

'Subtract, Don't Add To Spending,' Says Rep. Martin

Washington — Rep. Dave Martin said the nation would "get the greatest economic lift if the federal government stopped adding new spending programs and then cut back on present ones."

This would allow the budget to be balanced and prevent additional taxation, the Fourth District Republican declared.

Such action would be better than the President's request for $600 million for public works spending, Martin said.

"Additional federal spending means more money will be taken from the taxpayers' pockets, leaving them less to spend on goods," he noted.

"Thus, fewer purchases will be made which, in turn, will mean lower incomes."

Need Balance, Kennedy Tells ASCS Chiefs

Lincoln Star Spcial

Washington — Nebraska's Agricultural Stabilization and Conservation Committee was told Wednesday by President Kennedy that failure to balance farm supply with demand will create an invitation to disaster.

Reporting on their visit with the President were Albert A. Francke of Walton, Charles Brodersen of Herman and Raymond L. Davis of Potter, members of the state committee.

"We were warned that failure to adjust agriculture, with the resulting pressure from surpluses and expanded costs, coupled with the withdrawal of government efforts to aid agriculture could result in a collapse of farm prices equal to what we saw in the 1930's," reported the committee.

The ASCS committee, joined by Hans Jensen of Aurora, Northwest Area Director for ASCS, reported that prospects looked favorable for farm legislation in Congress.

"It doesn't look like the administration will get everything they have asked for but our chances are good to obtain some permanent farm legislation," said Jensen.

Pravda Supporting Individual Bonuses

Moscow (AP) — Pravda, the voice of the Communist Party, came out Wednesday for individual bonus payments and incentives to workers to speed up production.

This represented an almost revolutionary change in Soviet working conditions. It means the scrapping of the system of incentive payments to work brigades and other groups. Bonuses for the individual worker have not been general.

Incentive payments to groups have been made to encourage team spirit and collective morale.

Payments Bad

The Pravda article, written by A. Volkov, said this current leveling of payments in many places was bad.

The article, in effect a directive to get more production through individual incentives, followed demands by Premier Khrushchev that more pay be offered for more work, especially on farms where harvests have been lagging for 3 years.

As a matter of fact, many factories already have been paying individual and group bonuses for piece work, but these resulted in draining off most skilled labor from farms to cities.

Volkov condemned the magazine Ekonomicheskaya Gazeta (economic gazette) for publishing an article encouraging payment on a collective basis instead of individually.

The magazine writer said payment for individual productivity "cultivates individuality and weakens the strength of the collective." The same views were expressed in a book recently and in an article by the popular big circulation magazine Ogonyok (light).

Oddly, Ogonyok is put out by the managers and publishers of Pravda.

Pravda said such articles introduce "harmful confusion" in workers' ranks.

"Leveling is inadmissable under any system of payment," the paper declared. "Like any unjustified haste in expansion of free services and advantages, leveling can only impair the cause of communist construction, further advance of labor productivity and material wellbeing of people, development of soviet science, technique and culture.

"Employment at some enterprises of payment for work according to collective piecework system, which considers final results, cannot be universal."

The free services and advantages referred to the encouragement of workers to accept fringe benefits, such as entertainment and vacations, in lieu of higher wages.

As is often done when a sharp change of direction is ordered, the Pravda writer pretended there was no real change.

"The principle of payment in accordance with quantity and quality of work of each worker has served and continues to serve as a mighty means of advancing socialist output," Volkov wrote.

Institutions Get Forms For Hill-Burton Aid

The Department of Institutions Wednesday obtained from the State Health Department forms on which it will make application for Hill-Burton federal funds to help pay for the construction of a proposed addition to Orthopedic Hospital.

Institutions Director George Morris and Department Engineer Carl Botsford conferred with Verne Pangborn, chief of the Health Department's hospital division, about procedures for Hill-Burton application.

Morris had stated previously that present plans for the $200,000 addition call for its housing an outpatient clinic, brace shop and occupational therapy quarters.

Following the conference with Pangborn, Morris said the funds are expected to be sought under the diagnostic and treatment category, and the rehabilitation category.

He said the proposed building appears to qualify under both categories.

Pangborn said the building also may be eligible for funds under a third category — chronic disease — but cautioned that eligibility depends upon how the anticipated functions are explained in the application.

Reynolds Tabbed

Omaha (AP) — Harvey B. Reynolds of Omaha, assistant programs director in the region two office of the National Park Service, has been named programs and plans officer at Yellowstone National Park, regional director Howard W. Baker announced Wednesday.

Participation Is Asked For Bell Ringing Program

Maj. Gen. Lyle A. Welch, Nebraska Adjutant General, said Wednesday that he has asked each National Guard Commander in the state to participate in the American Legion "Bells Across The Nation" program.

The bell ringing program is scheduled for noon on April 19, "Patriot's Day", as a tribute to the Minutemen of Lexington and Concord.

The purpose of the program is to show a massive voluntary demonstration that Americans are armed in unity, spirit and in deep moral convictions in their love of freedom.

In a letter to the commander, Welch said that "I would suggest that this is an excellent opportunity for every guardsman to reorient himself to the Minuteman tradition of the National Guard."

Oil, Gas Leases Net Bonuses Of $29,871

The State Board of Educational Lands and Funds received bonuses totaling $29,871 in an oil and gas lease sale.

The average bonus was $2.16 per acre on the 13,826 acres leased.

The top bonus was $6.90 an acre on 640 acres in Sioux County sold to Leon Wondra of Lincoln.

Spring '63 Bids Set For Western Interstate Section

State Engineer John Hossack said that bids should be taken on interstate projects between Brady and Big Springs junction in the spring of next year, with construction beginning in early summer.

Hossack said that with the Federal Bureau of Roads decision reached on routing the highway south of the Platte River, he sees no reason why bid letting and construction should be delayed.

He said that construction normally begins on such projects about 60 days after the bid letting.

Plans for 1962 call for the letting of bids as far west as Gothenburg, Hossack said, but further construction will have to await funds to be received in 1963.

Fellowship Given To Robert Hill

Robert Hill of Lincoln, a senior at the University of Nebraska, has been awarded a Danforth Fellowship for graduate study.

Hill, son of Mr. and Mrs. Harold C. Hill, is a 1958 graduate of Lincoln High School. A holder of a Regents scholarship at the University, he is majoring in English and minoring in history and philosophy in the College of Arts and Sciences.

JFK Promises To Hold Down U.S. Help In U.N. Financial Crisis

By JAMES D. CARY

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy proposed reforms in United Nations financing and promised to seek larger contributions from other nations while holding down American assistance. But he did not say exactly how he would use $100 million he wants from Congress to ease a U.N. financial crisis.

He took this position in a letter to Sen. John Sparkman, D-Ala., endorsing a compromise proposal now under Senate debate that would permit him either to loan the $100 million to the United Nations or purchase that amount of U.N. bonds.

Late in the day, Senate Majority Leader Mike Mansfield, D-Mont., obtained an agreement limiting debate on the bill. This will permit voting on amendments and substitutes to start Thursday. Final disposition may not come until next week.

Sparkman Hruska

Sparkman read Kennedy's letter to the Senate and said he was confident it would answer questions raised about how the President would use the authority.

Some Disagree

Some Republicans, however, wanting to commit the President to a short term loan at the same interest rate the U.S. has to pay in its borrowing, did not agree.

"I do not feel this letter obviates in any way the need to write standards into this bill," said Sen. Roman L. Hruska, R-Neb.

Sen. John G. Tower., Tex., said the letter was couched in ambiguous terms.

The opposition is aimed at preventing Kennedy from purchasing half of a $200-million U.N. bond issue needed to pay debts stemming from refusal of some nations to pay assessments for peacekeeping operations in the Middle East and Congo.

25-Year Bonds

The bonds run for 25 years at 2% return. The President originally asked authority for an outright $100-million purchase, but endorsed the compromise plan worked out with GOP leaders to permit either loans or a purchase, with the interest rate and duration left up to him.

"It is wholly satisfactory substitute . . .," he said in his letter, "with just the right combination of discretionary authority and legislative guidelines.

". . . The funds . . . will be promptly used, as necessary . . in the manner most likely to minimize the outlays of the United States, maximize the contributions of others and put the essential operations of the United Nations on a sound financial basis."

Kennedy cautioned against the harm that would be done by repudiating the U.N. at this time and emphasized:

"The money will be loaned in such a way as to insure repayment of both principal and interest in annual installments . . ."

This language did not rule out a purchase of bonds although Kennedy made no reference to a purchase in the letter. Both Sen. George D Aiken, R-Vt., and Sen. Sparkman, floor manager of the bill, agreed earlier this week with what they said was White House legal advice that a bond purchase would in effect be a loan.

The President said he would not use the money to relieve other U.N. members of their debts from unpaid assessments. He promised his best efforts to so strengthen U.N. financing that future large scale borrowing would not be necessary.

Kennedy said he would ask the State Department to make a semi-annual report that would show the status and prospects of U.N. financing.

Sen. Norris Cotton, R-N.H., told the Senate he would vote for a U.N. loan "on definite terms for a definite time," but doubted the wisdom of a bond purchase.

Challenge Judge To Enforce Order

New Orleans (UPI) — A Louisiana segregationist and legislative leader challenged U.S. Dist. Judge J. Skelly Wright Wednesday to enforce his order outlawing limited stairstep integration in New Orleans schools.

Wright ruled Tuesday that the Louisiana pupil placement law is illegal, and ordered New Orleans public schools to admit children without regard to race from the first through the sixth grades.

"Judge Wright, you have made your decision; now, let's see you enforce it," State Rep. John S. Garrett said. Garrett is chairman of the Louisiana joint legislative committee on segregation.

New Orleans, as well as other Southern cities, has integrated by putting a limited number of Negro students into selected white public elementary schools in the first grade. An additional grade a year is integrated.

By next September under the placement plan, a few New Orleans public elementary schools would have been integrated into the third grade.

Rep. E. W. Gravelet Jr., vice chairman of the segregation committee, said the group "now thinks we have the answer which will ultimately solve this problem and help the people thwart this so-called sociological experiment."

He declined to say what the answer is, but announced that the committee will meet soon to discuss it.

Wright's order was the third setback for New Orleans segregationists in a week. It may have endangered the South's biggest bulwark against immediate and massive public school desegregation.

In his decision, Wright said that no matter how valid a pupil placement act may be on its face, "it may not be selectively applied."

Catholic Mother Willing To Accept Excommunication

New Orleans (AP) — A 41-year-old Catholic mother vowed Wednesday to accept excommunication rather than back down on her belief in racial segregation—unless the clergy shows her error in the Bible.

"If the Bible is not brought into the picture or discussed," said Mrs. Evelyn Gaillot, "then I will have to bow down gracefully and accept excommunication rather than desert my belief in God."

She faces an interview—probably Thursday—with Archbishop Joseph Francis Rummel, the 85-year-old prelate whom she said threatened her with expulsion from her church.

The threat, said the dark-haired mother of two children in Catholic schools, came in a letter she received late Saturday night.

The archbishop's chancery called the letter a "paternal admonition."

The letter, she said, contained accusations and statements which are not true.

"My statements (about segregation) and my defense has always been the Bible," she continued, "and while I am not revealing the content of the letter, it contains no mention or accusation against the Bible."

2 Of 6 Flood Projects Are In Active Status

. . . ABSENCE OF 'LOCAL COOPERATION'

Six specific flood control projects in the Elkhorn River basin have been authorized by Congress since 1950 — but only two are presently in an active status.

The reason: "absence of local cooperation," according to Kenneth E. Ristau of the U.S. Army Corps of Engineers, Omaha District.

It was in the Elkhorn River basin where the most severe spring flooding of 1962 occurred last month.

A brief outline of the authorized projects was provided to The Star Wednesday by the Corps and the offices of Rep. Phil Weaver.

Pre-construction planning is underway on two projects at the request of local interests. Construction could be initiated during fiscal 1963 provided funds are available and formal local assurances are obtained.

The two projects:

PIERCE

In order to protect the city from flood waters on the North Fork, construct two miles of earthen levee, relocate and enlarge 1,700 feet of existing channel, and reconstruct the existing spillway of Pierce Dam.

Estimated cost: $354,000, of which $66,000 would be borne by local interests.

WEST POINT

The project would consist of a levee about 8,300 feet long encircling the western portion of town.

Estimated cost: $757,000, of which $43,000 would be local.

Authorized, but inactive:

WATERLOO

The project would involve construction of a levee encircling the town on 3 sides.

Estimated cost: (1957 price levels) $196,000, of which $21,000 would be local.

NORFOLK

The plan includes levees along the left bank of the Elkhorn, a leveed diversion channel east of Norfolk on the North Fork, a levee-enclosed floodway from the diversion channel downstream to the confluence of the North Fork and the Elkhorn.

Estimated cost (1957 prices): $3,650,000, of which $720,000 would be borne locally.

GILES CREEK

The project includes a leveed diversion channel and floodway west of Tilden, roughly paralleling the existing channel. A concrete spillway structure would be erected near the upper end.

Estimated cost (1957 prices): $647,000, of which $83,000 would be local.

BATTLE CREEK

The plan includes levees averaging 4 feet in height along both banks north and west of Battle Creek, 9 channel cut-offs and enlargement of the existing channel.

Estimated cost (1957 prices): $427,000, of which $37,600 would be local.

In addition, the Corps drew plans for flood control projects at Scribner, Hooper, Winslow and Meadow Grove in 1947. These projects never received congressional authorization due to a lack of local interest.

All projects were developed as a result of severe floods that occured in May and June of 1944. The 10 local plans were found to be "economically feasible" after 4 efforts to provide basin-wide comprehensive flood control failed to prove feasible.

The Corps is presently authorized to make additional studies in the Elkhorn and Logan Creek basins—although funds are not yet available.

The study would be part of a coordinated comprehensive basin survey in which the Soil Conservation Service and the Bureau of Reclamation would participate.

Homemakers Meet Here On Saturday

More than 500 home economics students from 108 Nebraska high schools are expected to attend the 15th annual Nebraska Future Homemakers of America state convention at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education Saturday.

Future Homemakers of America is a national organization for students studying home economics in junior and senior high schools. It was founded in 1945 under the sponsorship of the U.S. Office of Education and is supervised in Nebraska by the vocational division of the State Department of Education.

Miss Dolores Gade, consultant of vocational homemaking education, is state adviser for the 108 chapters with 4,273 members.

The theme, "World Peace—Heart of the Home," has been chosen for the convention, according to Sharon Schmeeckle of Elwood, state president. Dr. Frank Court of the St Paul Methodist Church of Lincoln, guest speaker, will feature the convention theme in his address.

The future homemakers will present a pageant during their afternoon program titled "Stars and Stripes" with delegates from Seward, Eagle, Mead, Nebraska City, Nehawka, Stromsburg, Waverly, Weeping Water, Wilber and University High of Lincoln, participating. Co-chairmen for the pageant are Miss Marilyn Jensen of Stromsburg and Mrs. Frances Ditmer of Weeping Water.

University High School chapter members, under the leadership of Mrs. Melinda Holcome, adviser, and Carolyn Knight, president, are the local hostesses.

FIC Records Its Biggest Quarter

Omaha (AP) — The Federal Intermediate Credit Bank of Omaha reported its biggest first quarter in history.

Loans outstanding reached $130 million, an all-time peak, and loans closed during the period totaled in excess of $86 million.

The bank makes loans for farm operations for periods up to 7 years. It operates through farmer-owned production credit associations and other financing institutions in Iowa, Nebraska, South Dakota and Wyoming.

Havelock's 56th Festival Was Its Best, Vic Says

"It was the best," Victor Anderson said Wednesday at the conclusion of Havelock's 56th annual spring festival.

Dosek Denies Taking Part In False Claims

By GERRY WRIGHT

Lincoln attorney Edwin F. Dosek testified Wednesday that he and Robert Markel had not conspired to split false insurance claims.

Dosek is on trial in Lancaster District Court for obtaining money by false pretenses and conspiracy. Markel, a former Omaha attorney and claims adjuster for the Employers Mutual Insurance Co. of Wisconsin, is serving a reformatory sentence on the same charges facing Dosek.

Markel had testified that he and Dosek conspired to cash a $289.60 draft from the insurance company on a claim by Robert Hester.

Dosek denied cashing the draft.

Dosek said Markel told him that Hester had agreed to settle for $289.60 and that he (Markel) had a signed release and the endorsed check of Hester.

Endorsed Check

Dosek testified that Markel "asked if I would accompany him to a bank so he could cash" the check. But, Dosek said he told Markel he was unable to accompany him, but endorsed the back of the check upon Markel's request.

Dosek said the check was for $289.60 and his name did not appear on the front of it, when he endorsed it.

Markel had testified that Hester agreed to settle for $89.60 and that he and Dosek divided the $200 difference.

Came To Office

Dosek testified that Markel came to his office and gave him a sealed envelope for Hester to pick up. Dosek said he gave the envelope to Hester and had no knowledge of the amount it contained.

Hester, testifying for the prosecution, said Dosek counted out $89.60 in cash to settle his claim. Hester also said the signature on the draft was not his.

Dosek also denied cashing drafts in any other insurance settlements, including those of Joseph Clark and Lindell Rigg, referred to by Markel.

Markel said he and Dosek divided a $400 overpayment in the Clark case.

Clark, the final state witness, testified that he agreed to settle a claim for $500 and was given $555 by Dosek. He said Dosek explained that Markel had determined the higher amount was proper.

Clark produced a business card which he said Dosek gave him when he visited Dosek's office.

No Recollection

Dosek testified that he had no recollection of ever meeting Clark prior to his appearance in court.

Defense attorney W. O. Baldwin asked both Clark and Hester if they had any knowledge of whether Dosek received any money in the transactions. Both replied negatively.

In cross-examination of Dosek, County Atty. Paul Douglas asked the defendant if it were not true that Markel "is presently serving time because he entered a plea of nolo contendere of conspiracy with you to commit a crime and obtain money by false pretenses?"

"Mr. Markel and I had no arrangement of conspiracy conversation to commit a crime," Dosek replied.

Baldwin called Douglas as a defense witness and asked him to identify the information he filed in the Markel case.

Baldwin contended that the information did not name Dosek as the person with whom Markel conspired to obtain money by false pretenses.

Reason Given

Douglas, in cross-examining himself, stated that he filed the conspiracy complaint because "I had information that Robert Markel and Edwin Dosek had conspired to commit a felony to obtain money by false pretenses."

He said that the facts used in filing information against Markel were "identical" with those used in the complaint aganst Dosek.

The following character witnesses appeared for the defense, all testifying that Dosek's reputation for honesty and integrity" and "truth and veracity" is "good", "excellent" or "above reproach":

Additional defense witnesses are expected Thursday.

Morrison To Attend OEP Conference

Gov. Frank Morrison announced Wednesday he has accepted an invitation from the Executive Office of the President to participate April 13 in an emergency planning conference on wartime possibilities, to be held in Kansas City, Mo.

Governors of 7 states comprising Area 6 of the Office of Emergency Planning (OEP) have been invited to participate in the briefing, first of its kind ever held for coordinated planning by federal and state government agencies.

OEP director Edward A. McDermott and his staff will brief the state representatives on the federal government's recommended guidelines for non-military defense preparedness.

State officials other than the governor, along with representatives of industry and other resource fields and leaders of many organizations in Nebraska have also been invited.

Gov. Morrison said Nebraska stands ready to take whatever steps are necessary to prepare its government and its resources for survival and recovery from any future nuclear attack.

Ice Cream Quality 'High' In Nebraska

Nebraska's ice cream is high in quality, but there is considerable variation in flavor and color.

These were the conclusions of Nebraska and western Iowa ice cream producers who taste-tested 10 different brands at the ice cream and frozen desserts conference Wednesday at the University of Nebraska. Prior to the taste-testing sessions, the ice cream samples were tested in laboratories at the College of Agriculture.

Producers noted considerable variation in chocolate flavor between brands. Dr. Ira Gould, head of the Department of Dairy Technology at Ohio State University, Columbus, O., said the variation in chocolate flavor was expected since consumer tastes vary.

"There is more chance for the individual to discriminate in the chocolate flavor and color. Some firms actually build sales by developing a distinct flavor," Dr. Gould pointed out.

The overall high quality was attributed to development of new technology and machines which facilitate production of quality ice cream.

Donald Cole of the Marathon Corp., Omaha, says more and more ice cream is being sold by food stores—up 3% in the past year. However, there has been a slight decline in ice cream sales by drugstores. Over the nation, more ice cream is being sold by vending machines. Sales by these machines increased one per cent between 1960 and 1961.

Toy Suitcase, Not Luggage, Omahan Told

Omaha (AP)— The Internal Revenue Service has conceded M. B. Blackburn's points:

A toy suitcase is a toy and not luggage.

Blackburn, former Omaha druggist said Wednesday he received the ruling in a letter from Bernard H. Fischgrund, chief of the IRS excise tax branch.

In 1957 the IRS notified Blackburn he owed excise tax on 1,500 toy suitcases he had sold for 98 cents each. Since then he had bombarded Washington with letters, telegrams, petitions and even a sample of the suitcase.

The letter from Fischgrund was the result. It said toy merchants don't have to collect the 10% excise tax on sales of such goods.

Omaha (AP)—The president of the United States National Bank of Omaha, Edward W. Lyman, has been named state chairman of the 1962 Cancer Crusade.

Herb Jones Cleared In Fatal Shooting

Kimball (AP)— A coroner's jury held Wednesday that Herb Jones, 32, of Kimball, was the victim of an accidental shooting Monday night. Jones was dead on arrival at a hospital after being shot in the chest with a gun he owned.

Wayne Rouillard, 26, of Kimball, said that he, Jones and two other men had been drinking and that they stopped at a Kimball filling station to wash up. There had been a quarrel, Rouillard said, and he took the gun, remarking "let's get rid of this."

He said Jones grabbed his hand as he attempted to throw the gun out a window of the car they were in and the weapon was accidentally discharged.

New Tax Urged To Spur Recreation

Washington (AP) — President Kennedy proposed Wednesday a stiff tax on pleasure boats and other new revenue measures to finance the purchase of land and water areas for public recreation.

Kennedy sent Congress a bill to carry out his recommendation that the government create a land conservation fund to "expand existing recreational resources to meet our present and future needs."

In an accompanying message, Kennedy noted that Americans have traditionally considered the outdoors as free.

"In fact, however, outdoor recreation programs have been supported through a combination of general revenues and special levies such as national park admissions, fishing and hunting stamps and licenses, and federal excise taxes on fishing tackle and sporting arms and ammunition," the President said.

Established Principles

"This bill broadens the application of established principles as a means of assuring continued outdoor recreation opportunities."

Kennedy had discussed methods of paying for additional land for outdoor recreation in his conservation message to Congress a month ago. The bill recommends these specific courses:

—An annual federal tax on pleasure boats amounting to $5 for boats from 14 to 16 feet in length plus $2 for each additional foot. For one the size of the 92-foot presidential yacht "Honey Fitz" this would come to $157. Altogether, the Interior Department estimates this new charge would bring in about $45 million a year.

—Fees for the use of federal land and water recreation areas. One plan under consideration is the sale of automobile stickers for $2 or $3 to pay for admission to federal recreation areas on an unlimited number of occasions throughout a year. At $2, the revenue would total between $20 and $25 million. At $3, it would reach an estimated $36 million. Few federal parks charge anything now.

—Proceeds from the sale of non-military land that the government no longer needs for an estimated income of between $15 and $20 million a year.

—Retaining the 2-cent per gallon tax on gasoline and special fuels used in motor boats that is now refunded.

The revenue would amount to more than $100 million.

Frances Roess Wins Contest On Americanism

Miss Frances Roess of Pius X High School has won a local American Legion Auxiliary Unit No. 3 contest on the subject, "Democracy Can Defeat Communism."

Miss Roess, a senior, is now eligible to enter the state contest.

Miss Sandra Scott of Southeast High School was second in the contest.

Funds Lagging To Promote State At World's Fair

The fund drive to promote Nebraska at the Seattle World's Fair is lagging, leaders reported Wednesday.

James Oliver, Ravenna banker and treasurer for the Nebraska Day Committee, said he has received $1,028 in donations.

"Although the contributions have slowed down with only one tenth of the money needed having been donated, I am not discouraged," said Maj. Gen. Lyle A. Welch, state adjutant general and chairman of the committee appointed by Gov. Frank Morrison.

"I have faith and confidence in my fellow Nebraskans who know, just as I do, that somehow we must raise the money to promote our state at the fair," he added.

"The state is committed to participate and the funds must be raised through donations."

French Entertainer Is Indicted For Smuggling

New York (AP)—Jacques Angelvin, 34, an entertainer on French television, was indicted with 3 other men Wednesday on charges of smuggling $3.3 million worth of heroin into this country.

Despite protests of his lawyer, Angelvin was held on $100,000 bail in Kings County Court. He was master of ceremonies on a popular French television show, "Paris Club."

Similar bail was set for 3 other defendants, Francois Scaglia, 47, of Paris, and Joseph Fuca, 60, and his son, Pasquale, 31, both of Brooklyn.

Conspiracy, Possession

No trial date was set. Charges against the 4 include conspiracy and possession of narcotics.

Angelvin wore a black leather jacket at the bail hearing. He displayed no emotion as he stood with hands clasped before Judge John R. Starkey.

The state charged that the 4 men were members of a dope ring operating in France, Canada and the United States, with Lebanon as its source of supply.

24 Bags of Heroin

Asst. Dist. Atty. Robert Walsh claimed that 24 bags of raw heroin with a value in the illicit market of $3.3 million were brought into this country Jan. 10, hidden in Angelvin's 1960 American-made automobile aboard the liner United States.

Scaglia was described as a contact man who came here from Montreal to supervise transfer of the dope to the Fucas. Police and federal agents tracing the dope raided the Fucas' Brooklyn home Jan. 18, and said they found the narcotics hidden beneath a newly-plastered ceiling.

Angelvin and Scaglia were arrested the same day at their hotel.

Special Panel Decides Tests Could Be Detected

. . . IF UNRESTRICTED INSPECTIONS WERE PERMITTED

Washington (AP) — A special panel of scientists and engineers has concluded that underground nuclear tests could probably be detected anywhere in the world under an international agreement that permitted unrestricted inspection.

Even under a more restrictive agreement "a high degree of success might still be achieved," the panel decided, if two conditions were met:

1. Reasonable on-site inspection is permitted.
2. Development of needed scientific instruments and detection methods is pursued vigorously and immediately.

The findings were made public in a U.S. Bureau of Mines publication released Wednesday by the Department of the Interior.

The panel of bureau specialists was established to determine whether certain mine examining techniques, such as drill holes, could be relied on to detect and identify underground nuclear explosions.

Prior To August

The conclusions were reached prior to last August. In September the Soviet Union resumed nuclear tests in the atmosphere and the United States resumed testing underground.

But there appeared to be no immediate application to the present international stalemate over achieving a nuclear test ban treaty with the Soviets because of their refusal to permit inspection teams on their territory.

The study made clear that this would be necessary. Underground tests, because they are hard to distinguish from earthquakes, are much more difficult to detect than aerial tests which result in detectable fallout and set up atmospheric pressure waves. Because of the difficulty, the United States has insisted upon some form of on-site inspection.

The panel concluded that a major test run of known techniques would be needed to evaluate their worth firmly. It stated:

". . . a realistic and large-scale exercise involving a . . . clandestine test — followed by an exercise involving both remote and on-site inspection procedures—promises to develop essentfal experience and to permit a proper appraisal of capabilities. Exercises are seen as the most logical . . . means of accomplishing these objectives."

It also decided that successful detection would require men of great talent. This, the panel said, indicates a few inspection units staffed with outstanding experts would be more successful than a large number stationed throughout the world and kept on continuous alert.

"A few hard-core permanent units with access to a wide variety of talents and sources of supply, firmly committed to serve on inspection assignment on short notice are needed," the report said.

NIA, Citizens Ask Hearing On Rating Plan Extension

By BETTY PERSON
Star Staff Writer

The Nebraska Association of Insurance Agents and 11 Nebraskans, 10 of whom are not associated with the insurance industry, filed an application with State Insurance Director Frank Barrett Wednesday requesting a hearing on the department's approval of an extension in rating plans.

At issue is the department's approval in January of a plan filed by the National Bureau of Casualty Underwriters.

It permits businesses operating under franchise arrangements and firms requiring employes to use their own cars in their work to buy insurance on the same basis as a large business which owns a number of subsidiary outlets.

At the time the extension of rates was approved by the department, it was stated that the programs might result in a lower premium for franchised businesses with favorable loss records.

The Classes

The insurance classes covered in the programs include automobile, general liability, burglary and plate glass coverage.

The request for the hearing was filed by Lincoln attorney John H. Binning on behalf of the association and the 11 private citizens.

The citizens include Richard C. Allgood Jr. of Lincoln, executive secretary of the Nebraska Association of Insurance Agents who filed as a private citizen, and Donald D. Barth, Elmer E. Magee, Sidney S. Anderson, John F. Wells and Hal J. Bowers, all of Lincoln; James W. Bost of Grand Island; Isadore E. Levine of Columbus; Harold S. Acker and John Knobel of Fairbury, and Philip M. Everson Jr. of Wymore.

The 11 citizens stated that they are residents of the state, owners of personal property with interests in real estate, business and commercial interest including automobiles, and that they are aggrieved by the rate extension filing.

They charge the filing is "contrary to the laws of the State of Nebraska," and "unfairly discriminatory."

'Unfair Advantage'

If the filing is permitted to continue, they alleged, it "will, or may, grant to others similarly situated an unfair business and personal advantage in permitting different and lower rates of insurance to be charged on the same or similar risks without any difference in hazard, expense, or other relevant factors."

The applicants said this would "deprive . . . them of property and personal rights in matters of this kind as assured by (Nebraska casualty insurance laws), the Nebraska Insurance Code and the laws of the State of Nebraska."

Barrett said the Insurance Department will look into the application to see if there is any justification for a hearing.

"If there is, we will have one so that any valid arguments to be made against our decision can be heard," Barrett continued.

The director said the extended rating plan was submitted to the department in July, 1961 and was finally approved in January, 1962 after the department, its legal division, and the attorney general's office determined the filing was "proper and not unfairly discriminatory."

Ernest B. Perry Funeral Services Friday Morning

Funeral services for Ernest B.Perry, 85, prominent Nebraska lawyer and judge, will be at 10:30 a.m. Friday at Congreational Church. The Rev. J. Ford Forsyth will officiate.

Judge Perry

Pallbearers will be Sidney Anderson, Don Newville, Judge W. W. Nuernberger, Vaulx Risser, Judge Robert Van Pelt, and Harold Wagey.

Mr. Perry practiced law in Lincoln for more than 40 years. He was judge of what is now the 14th judicial district (McCook) from 1912 to 1920, and twice declined appointment to the state supreme court bench.

He was active in the Republican party. From 1924 through 1926 he served as the U.S. commissioner on the U.S.-Mexico Claims Commission.

Survivors include his widow, Clara; two daughters, Mrs. Lila Watkins of Lincoln and Mrs. Louise Mulliner of Holdrege; 3 sons, Ernest L. of Holdrege, and Arthur E. and Robert of Lincoln; a brother, Robert H. of Holdrege; 12 grandchildren and 21 great-grandchildren.

Hawley Remains In Deputy Job

State Education Commissioner Floyd Miller announced Wednesday that Stan Hawley will remain as deputy commissioner.

Hawley was deputy to former Commissioner Freeman Decker.

Dr. Miller said he was pleased at Hawley's acceptance of the deputy post under Miller because of Hawley's "invaluable experience connected with some very important phases of departmental activity."

Library Issue Carries By Needed Votes

Holdrege (UPI) — The city library bond issue here carried by the required 60% majority, Mayor Harold Kenfield announced Wednesday.

Results of the voting on the issue had been in doubt until past noon Wednesday since it was earlier announced that a two-thirds majority was needed.

A legal opinion was obtained from bonding attorneys and the attorney general's office that the issue was not affected by a statute requiring the two-thirds majority.

The $47,000 bond issue was favored by 65.55% of the voters with 10 absentee votes to be counted. The totals were 786 for and 413 against.

The bond funds, added to a recent bequest by the late A. M. Ledlie, Holdrege merchant, will assure construction of a $100,000 city library addition. The bequest totaled $51,000.

The south central regional library, a federal library project here, will then move to the city library, adding 30,000 books to the present 20,000 books on city library shelves.

POSTCARD by Stan Delaplane

Spring being here and all that, I flew up to Scotland to see Wm. Teacher and Sons, Ltd. make quite a lot of Scotch whiskey. An interesting time was had by all.

☆ ☆ ☆

The peat-smokey Scotch is Britain's number one money maker in the overseas market. (It doesn't do badly here at home either.)

Half of the overseas shipment goes to brighten the U.S. Of 10 American gay blades hoisting a glass tonight, one will be lifting Scotch.

This is quite a percentage in a country raised on corn rifle whiskey. It increases each year. And the Teacher's people opened a miltimillion-dollar blending and bottling plant in Glasgow to minister to this thirst.

☆ ☆ ☆

It was cold as a credit man's heart when I got on BEA's Vanguard at London Airport. The British keep their planes at the same temperature as their houses—you can hang meat in both of them.

Would you like a Scotch, sir?" said the steward. (BEA trots out the grog before the seat belt signs are off.)

At chilly Glasgow, I met a Teacher's man. He said we must hurry to the ceremony. But——.

"Fur-r-r-st we'll have a wee dram."

☆ ☆ ☆

The plant at Craigpark turned out to be an impressive place. (You wouldn't need ice in the whisky they have there either.)

I was taken on tour by Mr. Adam Kennedy Bergius, the export director. (He's distantly related to President JFK whose papa made his money in Scotch whisky importing.)

Mr. Bergius showed us great barrels of the famous stuff.

He showed how they put it in pipes. And how it ran down there and it came out here.

"The major concession we have here," said Mr. Bergius, "is they let us put in a sprinkler system. The government tax people are very much against letting you pipe water in around whisky."

I gathered that an unscrupulous man could water his brew, perish the thought. And the Customs and Excise people don't 'low no water in Scotch.

☆ ☆ ☆

The malt scotch (that's the stuff with the peat flavor) is blended with a no-flavor grain alcohol.

It comes out in different strengths. The British drink it at 80 proof (200 American proof is pure alcohol so you can figure it out).

The Americans take it at 86 proof.

Canada drinks it a little lighter.

"Who drinks the strongest whisky, Mr. Bergius?"

"We export the strongest—a little stronger than American whisky—to Africa."

☆ ☆ ☆

I should report that during this tour, three tartanclad pipers marched back and forth across the rooftop playing a Highland war chant.

As we passed through each department, its manager implored us to have a wee dram. It took the chill off.

☆ ☆ ☆

The tour then staggered downstairs to a banquet hall where everybody had a number of wee drams.

Luncheon was served. And Lord Craigton, Minister of State for Scotland, spoke highly of Scotch whisky. Several waitresses passed around putting bottles on the table—I don't want to push this, but it wasn't Coca-Cola.

The guests assisted each other downstairs where a wee dram was being poured in the Board of Directors' room.

And that's the way you open a Scotch blending plant. You couldn't do it more than once in a year.

U.N. Military Observers Restricted By Both Syria, Israel

United Nations, N.Y. (AP) — U.N. military observers stationed at the Palestine armistice lines are restricted in their movements by both Syria and Israel, their commanding officer said Wednesday.

Their work is further handicapped by Israel's 11-year-old boycott of the Israeli-Syrian-U.N. mixed armistice commission, said Swedish Maj. Gen. Carl Carlsson Von Horn.

Von Horn, chief of staff of the U.N. truce supervision organization in Palestine, made the statements in written answers to questions from members of the U.N. Security Council. He indicated the Israelis at times used force to hinder his observers.

The members had asked the questions Tuesday in the council's debate on complaints of Syria and Israel accusing each other of aggression in recent border clashes.

To a U.S. query on how his organization's effectiveness could be increased, Von Horn said it "would be greatly increased if both parties were to facilitate the movement" of U.N. observers.

In Syria, Von Horn said, the observers are not allowed to move more than 50 meters from any observation post without Syrian escort or liaison officers, and so cannot see things happening beyond nearby hilltops.

In Israel, he said, it is hard for observers to see what is going on without some means of transportation on the Sea of Galilee (Lake Tiberious), where shooting has occurred among Syrian posts near the shore and Israeli fishing and police boats.

The council, after its third meeting on the complaints, quickly adjourned to Thursday morning to give members time to study Von Horn's replies. Meanwhile, Israel submitted a resolution to have the council express grave concern at Syrian attacks and call on Syria to stop firing into Israel and interfering with Israeli activities on the sea.

Syria had submitted one Tuesday to have the council condemn Israel for a mid-March attack and resolve to impose penalties if it was repeated.

Von Horn said Israel forbade his observers to cruise the Israel-controlled sea of Galilee without Israeli liaison officers, even though Israeli residents could do so. He added that Israel also denied U.N. planes the use of the nearby Rosh Pina-Mahanayim Airport and of the commercial air corridors through there from Jerusalem to the Lebanese border.

Furthermore, the general said, U.N. observers sometimes have been kept out of the demilitarized zone "even by the threat and use of force when crossing at certain points from east to west" — in other words, from Syria toward Israel.

SYRIA MAKES BID FOR ARAB UNITY

Damascus, Syria (AP) — The military high command Wednesday followed up its suppression of a pro-Nasser rebellion in the north with a declaration that unity with the liberated Arab powers is its prime objective.

Naming neither President Nasser's United Arab Republic nor any other nation, the high command said unity must be established "on a thoroughly studied basis ensuring no future errors."

(Radio Cairo charged that Damascus authorities were "breaking their pledge to abide by the Homs conference resolutions," meaning decisions reached by high command and pro-Nasser negotiators at the city of Homs Sunday. It said Col. Muwaffak Assassa of the high command had undertaken several arrests among pro-Nasser officers.)

A merger of Syria and Egypt in the United Arab Republic was shattered last Sept. 28 by a military revolt amid charges that Nassar had turned Syria into a concentration camp.

Restoration of Syria's ties with Cairo was the aim of the Aleppo-based army uprising, which collapsed Tuesday after a 48-hour crisis.

This uprising, of which Col. Luaay Atassi assumed command, was an offshoot of the bloodless military coup that ousted President Nazem El Koudsi and his rightist civilian government March 28.

Tension seemed eased. A ban on travel between cities was relaxed. Internal telephone communications were restored. The Aleppo radio station, which during the uprising called itself "the voice of the United Arab Republic," returned to network operation with radio Damascus.

The half million people of Aleppo, however, were kept under curfew except for 3 hours, from 8 to 11 a.m. They were ordered to surrender all arms. Demonstrations were banned. Hundreds of pictures of Nasser had been posted in windows of that northern commercial center Sunday and Monday.

"The crisis has ended," the high command said in a statement broadcast from Damascus. "Quiet has been restored to all parts of the country and to all its towns and cities."

Renewal Of Talks Sought In Pullman Dispute

Chicago (UPI) — A federal mediator Wednesday tried to arrange a resumption of negotiations in a dispute that could lead to a strike by all of the nation's conductors on Pullman sleeping and parlor cars.

National Mediation Board member Robert O. Boyd summoned representatives of the Pullman Co. and the Order of Railway Conductors and Brakemen (ORCB) into separate conferences on the union's threat to begin a progressive strike at 6 a.m. April 12.

Conferees went into the huddles with Boyd with divergent stories about their disagreement in negotiations over job protection provisions sought by the union.

Recessed

Work rules negotiations between the nation's railroads and 5 operating brotherhoods, including the conductors union, meanwhile were recessed until April 17 so that new union spokesmen could study a report from a presidential study commission.

The talks were recessed at the request of the unions, the negotiators announced jointly. Because of "wholesale changes of personnel of the union negotiating committee."

Brotherhood spokesmen said the unions — particularly the Brotherhood of Railway Trainmen (BRT), which made several changes in its team — needed more time to acquaint themselves with the commission's report.

Neil P. Speirs, president of the Switchmen's Union of North America (SUNA), said later that the postponement was arranged to give the railroads time to answer a SUNA demand that the carriers "unqualifiedly" accept the union as bargaining agent for its members in the work rules talk.

Speirs said that after the last wage talks the railroads challenged SUNA's right to bargain in a suit now pending in federal courts.

J. E. Wolfe, head of the carriers' bargaining unit, said the railroads hoped "an agreement can be reached . . . within the framework of the presidential report."

"We assume in the lack of statements (to the contrary) by the unions that they are willing to discuss the carrier proposal." Spokesmen for the trainmen, conductors, engineers, firemen and switchmen have said outside the closed hearings this week that they would not negotiate on the basis of the commission report.

The presidential commission on Feb. 28 recommended a major overhaul of industry work rules, including eventual elimination of some 45,000 fireman jobs on diesel locomotives in freight and yard service.

Guido Seeks Support From Argentine Political Leaders

Buenos Aires (AP) —President Jose Maria Guido sought support for his new regime Wednesday from Argentine political leaders.

He sent Interior Minister Rodolfo Martinez to huddle with leaders of the People's Radical Party, which was the main opposition to deposed President Arturo Frondizi before followers of ex-dictator Juan D. Peron scored startling election victories March 18.

Frondizi's own intransigent radical party —still controlling the Senate and retaining large groups in the chamber of deputies — seemed to be turning back from previously announced opposition to the regime which Guido is shaping under the watchful eyes of the Argentine military.

Intransigent radical senators approved a resolution implying that while they consider themselves divorced politically from their former party colleague, Guido, they will support all government measures deemed good for the country.

Guido, president pro tem of the senate before a military coup boosted him into the nation's leadership, resigned from the Intransigent Radical Party when he became president almost a week ago.

An Intransigent Radical Party convention, called to discuss ways to bring Frondizi back into the presidency from his arrest on a River Plate Island, appeared to calm down.

Meanwhile, Peronist leader Andres Framini demanded the election victories taken from Peronist candidates by a presidential decree last month be given "absolute and unconditional" recognition by the new government.

House Refuses To Cut U.S. Support In Congo

Washington (AP) — The House refused Wednesday to cut off funds for the U.S. contribution to the United Nations military force in the Congo, or to limit disbursing of the funds.

The $25,616,000 item was left intact in an appropriation bill after a sometimes emotional debate and three votes. The House then passed the bill.

The same issue of financing U.N. activities in the Congo is involved in a bill before the Senate proposing the United States loan the U.N. $100 million or purchase that amount of U.N. bonds.

Delete Item

Rep. Donald C. Bruce, R-Ind., sought to delete the Congo item altogether. He displayed enlarged photographs which he said showed old women, nurses and children killed by U.N. troops in Katanga, the Congo's secessionist province where the international force went into action.

"This would have been impossible without our contributions and logistic support . . . " Bruce said. "As for those who have died, we can only ask God's forgiveness, but let us be careful what we do from now on."

Bruce said some of the pictures had been published in news media and others had been given to him. He refused, under questioning by Rep. Roman C. Pucinski, D-Ill., to specify who gave them to him.

Bruce said he would be "delighted to discuss these photographs and their source" with a congressional investigating committee if one were set up.

Withdrawing U.N. troops would insure that the Congo 'will be a bloody pulp," Rep. John V. Lindsay, R-N.Y., said in opposing Bruce's amendment. And Rep. John J. Rooney, D-N.Y., said such action would invite a communist takeover.

After the House defeated Bruce's amendment by voice vote, Rep. H. R. Gross, R-Iowa, offered one requiring payment of the U.S. contribution only in the same proportion other nations pay. The House defeated this motion on a standing vote, then confirmed the defeat by roll call, 235 to 153.

HE WAS READY FOR HIGH WATER

Bert Anhalt, 82, was ready when an overflow of the Minnesota River poured into his house in a low-lying area of Carver, Minn., southwest of Minneapolis. Anhalt, shown checking a stick he uses for measuring the water, moved into a trailer house he keeps on high ground for just such emergencies. Anhalt's home, visible in background, also was flooded in 1957 and 1960. Flooding Wednesday was limited to low areas.

Small College Health Experts To Meet Friday

The University of Nebraska will host representatives of small college health organizations at the Nebraska Center for Continuing Education Friday and Saturday.

The conference on "Small College Health Services" will feature specialists in the public health field.

Among the 25 speakers are Mrs. Ruby Burgar, R.N., of Los Angeles, Calif.; Dr. Paul Burgert of Lake Forest, Ill.; Dr. Leonard Murray of Des Moines, Ia.; and Dr. Leona Yeager, of Evanston, Ill.

A conference summary will be held at a panel discussion at 4:15 p.m. Saturday.

Flood Damage To Roads Hits Only $32,000

The State Department of Roads Wednesday placed a $32,700 price tag on flood and ice damage to Nebraska state highways during the flood siege in March.

The figure falls far short of the $200,000 damage to state highways during similar spring flooding in 1960.

Not a bridge was lost from this year's flood, although there was at least one close call.

One lone piling prevented the collapse of a Nebraska Highway 15 bridge across Pearl Creek 3 miles south of Hartington.

The bridge, constructed in 1940, was supported in the middle by a row of 8 timber pilings. Ice floes cut off 7 of the pilings last month, but one held firm and saved the bridge from collapse.

Traffic on the span was halted as soon as the jeopardy was discovered.

Cost of replacing the 7 pilings has been estimated at $2,500.

Plans June Wedding

MISS JUNE SCHIRMER

Announcement is being made this morning by Mr. and Mrs. Lester Schirmer of Milford, of the engagement of their daughter, June of Lincoln, to Willard Jensen, son of Mr. and Mrs. Addis Jensen of Ruskin.

The wedding will take place in June.

Mr. Jensen is a graduate of Peru State College.

Scholarship Is Awarded

District I of the Nebraska Federation of Women's Clubs recently announced the winners of its annual fine arts competition, according to Mrs. Clavin Sterns of Raymond, district president.

Seven high school students, sponsored by clubs in the district, were given auditions at Northeast High School in Lincoln. Serving as judges were John P. Moran, director of the All-State Fine Arts summer course at the University of Nebraska; Duane Schultz, instructor in instrumental music at Northeast High, and Velma Smith, vocal instructor at Irving Junior High.

First place winner of the $95 scholarship was Richard Packwood of Sterling. Mary Lu Hicks of Auburn, sponsored by the Stella Woman's Club, is first alternate, and Lucy Dubovsky of Lincoln, sponsored by the Junior Woman's Club of Lincoln is second alternate.

Other competitors were Phillip Kite, Ross Oestman and Allan Harms, all of Auburn, and Carol Smith of Murray.

The Talk Around Town

Ah, Spring — and so forth. The season has nothing to do with the activity around town, however, but it does become involved with the themes of some of the dinner dances which are here, there and everywhere this weekend.

The other day we told the details of the Junior League's "Gaslight Ball" planned for Saturday evening at the Lincoln Country Club. The Junior League party is but one planned for the weekend.

* * *

Our Friday night calendar tells us that the members of the Colonial Dancing Club will be dining and dancing at Hotel Cornhusker when they have an "April Showers" party.

Planning the affair is a committee composed of Mr. and Mrs. Gerry Rosenberger, chairmen; Mr. and Mrs. L. C. Jones, Mr. and Mrs. A E. Imes, Mr. and Mrs. Glen Mowrer, Mr. and Mrs. Eugene Reed, Mr. and Mrs. Freeman Everett, Mr. and Mrs. George David, Mr. and Mrs. Edward Becker, Mr. and Mrs. Harold Nelson, Mr. and Mrs. Arthur Boyer and Mr. and Mrs. Howard Echel.

Guests at the party will be Miss Kay Cirksena, Tom Hepperlin of Beatrice, and Charleton Lowenberg of San Francisco.

* * *

"Spring" will be predominant in the decor and the attire when the Terpsichorean Club has its dinner dance on Saturday evening at Hotel Lincoln. Cottons for the ladies — sports attire for the men — and spring decorations for the tables is the order of the evening.

Mr. and Mrs. James Bickle are chairmen of the committee which includes Mr. and Mrs. Paul Pidcock and Mr. and Mrs. Lloyd Mitchell.

Mr. and Mrs. Robert Morin will be guests.

* * *

Spring, especially that portion of it labelled April, brings more than dinner dances. It also brings vacationers home.

Mr. and Mrs. Walter W. White, for example, returned last weekend from Monterey, Calif., where they spent a three weeks holiday. Perhaps we should tell you that Monterey is but a stone's throw from Salinas, Calif., the home of Mr. and Mrs. White's son-in-law and daughter, Mr. and Mrs. Robert Grainger and their family.

* * *

There is considerable excitement at the home of Mr. and Mrs. Louis DuTeau these days. Young Al DuTeau is counting the hours until Monday when Mr. and Mrs. Melvin Werkmeister and their sons, Ronnie and Randy, arrive.

There is something very special about Mr. and Mrs. Werkmeister as far as young Al is concerned. They are trapeze artists and will appear at the Shrine Circus which opens soon at the State Fair grounds.

The cause of all of the excitement is the fact that Mr. and Mrs. Werkmeister and their sons will be house guests at the DuTeau home.

You may, or may not know, that Mr. and Mrs. DuTeau and their son resided in Glendale, Calif., for a period of three years. Before buying a house in Glendale they resided in an apartment and, as it turned out, their apartment neighbors were Mr. and Mrs. Werkmeister and their sons. A strong friendship developed—and that is how it happens that the DuTeaus will have the Werkmeisters as house guests.

* * *

Just this moment learned that Mrs. Charles Simon will be arriving from Salina, Kan., next Monday to spend a few days as the house guest of her brother-in-law and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Harry Simon.

* * *

Have belated news of an honor received by Mrs. James Stuart at the Delta Gamma banquet last Saturday evening. Mrs. Stuart, a former province director; a past officer of the alumnae club, and a former collegiate chapter advisor, was awarded the Sara Deutsch pin for outstanding contribution and service to Delta Gamma. The first recipient of the award is Mrs. L. W. Korsmeyer who received the pin last year.

FUN NEWS IN SUBURBIA

The April showers quite definitely have been in evidence this week, but whether they will bring May flowers or not is yet to be seen. However, we understand that April is bringing many newcomers to suburbia and today the news is about these residents of suburbia with some guests added for good measure.

Arriving on Friday were Mrs. Mason's brother and sister-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Roy Curtis of Danville, Ill., and her mother, Mrs. Alice Curtis of Tecumseh. Joining the family group for the day on Saturday were Mrs. Mason's brother-in-law and sister, Mr. and Mrs. Burdette Bauer of York.

The newest addition to the family of Mr. and Mrs. Walter Johnson is a young lady, by the name of Patricia Margaret Johnston, who arrived at Bryan Memorial Hospital on Saturday, March 17. Patricia has two sisters, Terry Lynn, who is seven, and Christie Anne, who will be four in June.

Expected in Lincoln for a visit with Miss Patricia about April 15, is her maternal grandmother, Mrs. T. H. McDavid, of St. Louis, Mo. Mrs. McDavid plans to be in Lincoln for a week.

Mr. and Mrs. Beyke also have a son, Jerry, who is 13 months old.

Linda's maternal grandparents are Mr. and Mrs. Joe Pavelka, Jr., of Glenvil and her paternal grandmother is Mrs. Oliver Beyke of Lawrence. Mrs. Beyke arrived in Lincoln on March 17, shortly before Linda's arrival, and visited with the family until last Wednesday. Also anxious to meet their new granddaughter were Mr. and Mrs. Pavelka, who traveled to Lincoln for a visit on Sunday, March 25.

Newcomers Officers

Members of the Civic Newcomers Club elected officers on Tuesday evening when the group met at Cotner Terrace for a dessert supper and evening of cards.

Revealing plans for her wedding on Friday, April 6, is Miss Shirley Tate-Lee, whose marriage to Tom Ely will take place at 7:30 o'clock in the evening at the Havelock Christian Church.

Dear Abby

Stick To Courtship

Abigail Van Buren

DEAR ABBY: I am 20 years old and am engaged to a very jealous boy. He insists on seeing me every night. When I come home from work I have my washing and ironing to do, and I like to go to a movie with a girl friend once in a while. He allows me to have one night away from him every two weeks. And then he gives me the third degree about what I did and who I saw. I think I am entitled to one evening a week away from him. He says because we are engaged he is entitled to all my time. Is he right?

OWNED

DEAR OWNED: If this is a preview of how you two are going to get along after marriage, I suggest a LONG courtship. He is far too possessive, and you are justifiably resentful. A jealous fiance makes a miserable husband. Forewarned is forearmed.

DEAR ABBY: Can you settle an argument that has been going on for 15 years? Should an anniversary be celebrated when one mate is dead? Or should you still go on sending gifts and cards to the one who is living? I say, what difference does it make? If one person is still living and able to say, "Today is my anniversary," then that person still has an anniversary. My wife says it takes two to celebrate an anniversary and it is not proper to celebrate it alone. Sign me,

TIRED OF ARGUING

DEAR TIRED: Your wife is right. It takes TWO to celebrate an anniversary.

DEAR ABBY: I went with Joe for four years. I am 28 and he is 35. We were more than just friends, if you know what I mean. We had our good times, but I went through more misery than I care to talk about. He promised marriage, but it was only conversation. He was a liar and a cheat, but when a woman loves a man she'll overlook a lot. I finally made the break and, believe me, my love for him is dead. He owes me $300. In order to get I will have to see him again. He didn't give me a "note" or anything so I'm out of luck there. I don't want to start up with him again, but how else can I get my money?

LEARNED A LESSON

DEAR LEARNED: You learned a lesson, and it cost you $300. Forget the debt — and the debtor. I think you got off cheap.

DEAR ABBY: I am ten years old and have a problem. My grandparents always talk Italian and I can't understand them. They have been in this country for about 25 years and it's about time they learned English. I guess maybe they can, but they don't. How can I get my grandparents to talk English? They KISS me in Italian, too, which is very rough.

TROUBLED BOY

DEAR TROUBLED: You are passing up a wonderful opportunity to learn Italian. Ask them to teach you! And when they kiss you in Italian, say, "Grazie, e basta!"

CONFIDENTIAL TO SICK AT HEART: Forgive him. You never know when you might need the same kind of understanding.

Opening lead—jack of diamonds.

Declarer has to do a certain amount of guessing in some hands, because he does not know how the adverse cards are divided. The clues may be sparse, the defense may be clever, or there may be no positive way for him to reach a firm decision in choosing his line of play.

Such hands are comparatively rare, though, and declarer can nearly always find a way to avoid the guess or else solve it successfully.

Look at this hand where South failed in his contract. He ducked the diamond lead, ruffed the continuation, drew three rounds of trumps, and led a club to the queen.

East made a good play when he ducked. He knew that if he took the ace at once, his partner's jack (if he had it) would be subject to a later finesse.

Declarer then played a spade from dummy and finessed the jack. West won it and returned a diamond. Declarer ruffed, cashed the ace of spades, and led another club, West playing low.

Now South was up against a difficult guess. He could put up the king from dummy on the basis that West had started with the A-7-4 or he could play the ten on the basis that West had started with the J-7-4. Either play could be right or wrong, depending on how the cards were divided.

Declarer guessed wrong. He played the king and later lost another club to go down one.

It is true that South ran into tough defense as well as bad luck with his finesses. However, his troubles were of his own making. He should have made the contract without subjecting himself to a guess of any kind. He overlooked a play sure to make the hand.

After ruffing the diamond and drawing trumps, he should have led the A-J of spades, deliberately giving up the chance of winning a spade finesse. A later club lead would assure him of an entry to dummy and a discard of a club on the queen of spades. His only losers would be a spade, a diamond and a club.

At the recent meeting of Phi Xi Chapter, Beta Sigma Phi, the members elected Miss Norma Hawk president of the group for the coming year.

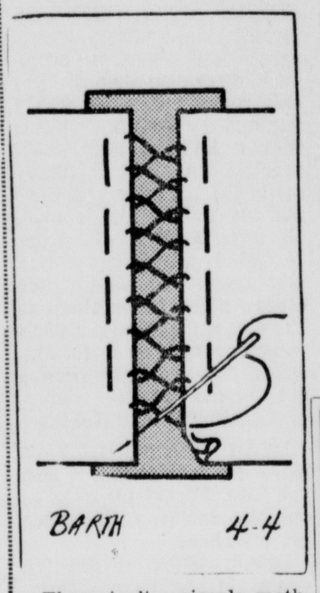

Also elected to office were Miss Fran Albers, first vice president; Mrs. Gene Griffin, second vice president; Miss Mary Niemann, secretary; Miss Mary Beth Dunne, corresponding secretary; and Miss Nancy Woulf, treasurer.

Members of Zeta Alpha Chapter, Epsilon Sigma Alpha, entertained Sunday morning at a breakfast at the Hotel Cornhusker, honoring Mrs. Marilyn Wallberg, who will leave in the near future to reside at Colorado Springs, Colo. Guests included other Lincoln members of the sorority.

It Seams To Me

There's Always A Right Way

Patricia Scott

There isn't a simple method of doing any decorative details such as fagoting, hemstitching, etc., but, there is always a right way, and you'll find such work isn't so difficult when it is properly done.

Q. Is there an easy way to fagot? I'd appreciate your help. Miss M. K. P.

A. Since you didn't specify whether you were interested in criss-cross or bar fagoting, I'll show you the one most widely used—criss-cross fagoting. Baste the edges of the fabric to be fagoted to paper. Stitch from top to bottom, slanting your stitches from one side to the other and always going under the thread of the last stitch. After the edges are finished, tear away the paper. If you'll look at the illustration, I think you'll easily understand these instructions and see how really simple it is to fagot.

Q. I wear a size 12 skirt that fits perfectly in full skirts, but my hips are size 36 and when I sit down in a sheath, I get a fold about one inch deep along the hip line. Any suggestions? Mrs. J. G.

A. Your skirt is probably too snug around the hips. Therefore, you must enlarge your pattern before cutting it, at the problem point. My booklet, "How to Alter Dress Patterns," will help you. If you'd like to have it, just write to me in care of this newspaper, asking for the booklet, and enclosing 25 cents to cover costs, and a stamped, self-addressed envelope.

Q. Can you tell me how a seam is blended, and the reason for doing it? Also, is this process sometimes called something else? Mrs. K. M.

A. Yes, blending is sometime called beveling. The reason you blend or bevel a seam is to graduate the width of the seam allowances to avoid thick seam edges and to prevent a ridge when pressing. To do this, simply trim the interfacing very close to the seam line. Then trim the facing so it's a bit wider than the interfacing. If you make it ⅛-inch wide you'll be all right. Then, trim the outside garment so it is just a little wider than the facing. You'll find that the three layers of seam allowances are no longer bulky and will give your garment a finer finished look after pressing.

Grand Jury May Dig Deeper In Estes Case

Pecos, Tex. (AP) — A federal grand jury showed signs Wednesday that it may dig deeper into the Billie Sol Estes mortgage cases than the Justice Department originally asked.

The jury, meeting in El Paso, called at least 3 men not known to be connected with the charge of fraud filed by the FBI. The men were not identified.

The charge was filed against Estes and three associates last Thursday.

All 4 are free on bond.

Estes, 37, a financier specializing in grain storage and anhydrous ammonia fertilizer, was named Wednesday in two more lawsuits. These brought the total of damages sought from him to nearly $9 million, although some of the suits may duplicate each other.

Suing Wednesday for return of mortgages they signed for anhydrous ammonia tanks were T. J. Wilson and Lewis S. Thomas, both farmers.

The suits indicate each signed mortgages for 75 tanks and were paid $7,500 each in cash or credit for signing. The tanks are worth about $1,000 each.

Also named in the farmers' suits are Superior Manufacturing Co.; Superior's president, Harold Orr; W. H. King, listed as a vice president of Superior and area representative of Cit Co., a lending agency; and Cit.

Many of the mortgages in question in the multi-million dollar deals were made to Superior. These mortgages later were transferred to national and local lending companies.

LOSES THREE CHILDREN IN FIRE

Mrs. Domingo Del Gardo, center, is comforted by neighbors Wednesday after 3 of her children were killed in a flash fire in a bungalow area of Brooklyn's Coney Island section of New York. Mrs. Del Gardo suffered a burned right hand when she and her husband tried to reach the children in their bedroom.

London Holdup Nets 6 Bandits $280,000

London (AP) — Six masked men slugged a postoffice driver with an iron bar and made off with his truck containing stamps and postal orders worth 100,000 pounds ($280,000).

The looted truck was found abandoned a mile away.

MARTIN HEADS REHAB CENTER

Other new officers are Mrs. Joseph Seacrest, vice president, and Donald Kirkpatrick, secretary. Jack Trombla was re-elected treasurer.

Director Dwight Toedter reported the center began 1962 with a balance of $5,747 and had $2,800 remaining March 1. He said this will cover operations through April.

Moratorium On Land Applications

Washington (AP)—The Interior Department is planning to terminate its moratorium on public land applications from Nebraska, Kansas, Colorado and Wyoming.

Karl Landstrom, director of the Bureau of Land Management, told a House Public Lands subcommittee that the backlog of applications has cleared up sufficiently to resume processing new ones.

The moratorium was applied a year ago and Landstrom said it will come to an end fairly soon.

Morrison Rejects Tax Reform

. . . AS PERTINENT ISSUE IN PICKING GOVERNOR

Governor Frank B. Morrison Wednesday rejected tax reform as a pertinent issue in the selection of a Nebraska governor.

Speaking before the Lincoln Junior Chamber of Commerce, the governor asserted that questions of changing the tax base belong to the people of Nebraska and could only be expressed by legislative action.

"A governor," he said, "has no legislative vote. In a non-political, unicameral legislature he has no party organization to implement his tax position. His role is one of awaiting the disposition of the legislature and then administering its appropriations in a most effective manner and according to the intent with which they were provided."

"No governor, by virtue of the character of his office, can do more than that," Morrison said. He added that the question of a broadened tax base is of concern in the legislative districts and has a direct bearing in the selection of the senators.

Constant Effort

Morrison told his audience of some 150 Jaycees that programs for progress in Nebraska were within the administrative influence of the governor. He said there had been a constant effort to improve the efficiency and effect of the state highway department which, he reminded, had grown in a decade from a $10 million to a $70 million dollar annual business.

He asserted that Nebraska, originally described as a desert area, is now 6th nationally in agricultural production, and added that under current emphasis on soil conservation and improved use of water resources can become the nation's first state.

Economic diversification, he said was continuing, but he reminded that a 10% addition to agricultural income would be the equivalent of adding a new major industry in each county.

The governor spoke confidently of the state's emergent tourist industry, with emphasis on historical sites, recreational opportunities, scenic and architectural attractions. He noted that opening the Nebraska Capitol to weekend sightseers had attracted 32,000 visitors since last July.

Asks Support

The governor asked for more generous support for Nebraska education which he described as the heart beat of Nebraska progress.

The Junior Chamber also heard briefly from legislative candidates in the Lincoln area: Fern Hubbard Orme, Marvin Stromer, Louis C. Jensen, Victor Gruenemeier, Jerry Warner and Richard Duxbury.

It honored Lincoln City Forester Ken Thelen as outstanding Junior Chamber member for the month and City Park Superintendent James H. Ager as honorary outstanding member. Both performed distinguished service in the Junior Chamber's recent auction raising funds for the projected Lincoln children's zoo.

Dennis Gaswick Is NWU GOP President

Dennis Gaswick, a sophomore from Hay Springs, has been elected president of Nebraska Wesleyan University Young Republicans, it was announced Tuesday.

Vice president is JoAnn Rezek, a sophomore from Wahoo.

Bit Of State Will Be Included In War Memorial

A bit of Nebraska is being shipped to Norwich, England, for use in construction of a war memorial to 6,000 Americans of the 2nd Air Division who lost their lives during World War II.

Gary Torrens, Fremont, University of Nebraska senior and member of Alpha Phi Omega, service fraternity, took on the task of collecting a box of stones from the University campus for the shipment.

The request came from a new national university at Norwich which is building a fountain. Rock and stone samples from other American universities will be included.

Road Department Asks Waiver Of Viaduct Heights

The State Department of Roads Wednesday asked the State Railway Commission to waive its minimum restrictions regarding viaduct clearances for two overpasses on the Interstate 180 spur in Lincoln.

Plans for a viaduct over track 18 of the Chicago and North Western Railway Co. at 10th St. call for a vertical clearance of 19 feet 6 inches. Plans for the viaduct over track 14 of the Missouri Pacific Railroad Co. at 9th St. call for a clearance of 22 feet 8 inches.

Under present commission regulation, the minimum vertical clearance on such projects is 23 feet.

CONNIE NICHOLAS, WHO KILLED MILLIONAIRE LOVER, LEAVES PRISON

Connie Nicholas

Indianapolis (AP) — Connie Nicholas walked through the big electronic gate at the Indiana women's prison Wednesday a free woman and burst into tears as she did frequently during her trial for killing her millionaire lover.

Mrs. Nicholas, 47, had served the minimum two-year sentence on a manslaughter conviction for the fatal shooting of Forrest Teel, 54-year-old vice president of Eli Lilly & Co. Connie said Teel spurned her for a younger woman after a 15-year illicit love affair.

With her head bowed, Connie walked briskly from her prison cottage to the gate. An official pushed a button and the gate opened. As Connie walked down a sidewalk to the administration building, tears filled her eyes.

Seeing newsmen she recognized from the trial, she raised her head for the only time, wiped away the tears and said:

"It looks like Old Home Week, doesn't it."

Those were the only words spoken by the petite brunette.

After about two minutes inside the building, she walked out and stepped quickly into a car with her sister and brother-in-law, Mr. and Mrs. Thomas Blankenship of nearby New Whiteland, in whose home she'll live until she decides abotu her future.

Connie carried a tan overnight case and wore a new-looking brown tweed suit.

Later, while relaxing at the Blankenship home, Mrs. Nicholas talked to newsmen by telephone.

"I'm still excited," she said, "excited and happy."

She planned to "relax and rest" during her first day of freedom.

Connie has said she hopes to return to work as a secretary, probably in Indianapolis, but indicated she is a little worried about publicity.

"I don't want to put my future in jeopardy," she said. "I do have to work for a living."

When she left the prison, Mrs. Nicholas carried her overnight case in her right hand—the one the defense contended was left paralyzed because of injuries suffered in a struggle with Teel, a married man, the night of July 31, 1958. Teel was shot to death that night in his white Cadillac near the apartment of his new girl friend.

DAILY CRYPTOQUOTE

Here's How To Work It

A X Y D L B A A X B
is L O N G F E L L O W

One letter simply stands for another, in this example, A is used for the three L's, X for the two O's etc. Single letters, apostrophes, the length and formation of the words are all hints. Each day the code letters are different.

Here is a practical little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number of letters is 6 or more, subtract 4. If the number is less than 6, add three. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers left to right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures

Faster Pace For Huskers

. . . CONTACT WORK BEGINS

Coach Bob Devaney stepped up the pace a bit Wednesday as the Nebraska Cornhuskers got in their second day of spring practice under sunny skies.

Early portions of the long afternoon session — two groups overlapped — were devoted to work on drop-back passes, pass defense and backfield timing.

One backfield getting considerable attention included Dennis Claridge, quarterback; Dave Thiesen and Kent McCloughan, halfbacks; and Bill (Thunder) Thornton, fullback.

Contact was ordered during later group work. During the time both groups were on the field, the Huskers ran in units.

Devaney said he's definitely scheduling a scrimmage for Saturday, but has changed the time until the afternoon.

"We should be ready to hit by Saturday," he said.

There have been no new injuries serious enough to sideline a player.

Paper Says OU To Pick Bob Stevens

Oklahoma City (AP)— South Carolina basketball coach Bob Stevens is the University of Oklahoma's pick for its vacant cage post, The Daily Oklahoman said in a copyright story in its Thursday morning editions.

Stevens was among at least 7 men considered to replace Doyle Parrack who resigned last month after coaching 7 years at the Norman, Okla., school.

Athletic director Bud Wilkinson was not available for comment but university president Dr. George Cross, visiting in Tulsa said Wilkinson had made no recommendation yet.

"I don't think he (Stevens will take the job," said Dr. Cross. "I don't think he'll be recommended."

He also said Wilkinson could telephone a recommendation before Regents meet although he said this was unlikely. He said the coaching position was not on the Regents' agenda.

The Oklahoma City newspaper said it had reliable information that the University's Athletic Council selected Stevens and only approval by Oklahoma's Board of Regents is necessary to make the appointment official. The regents meet today in Tulsa.

Stevens, 39-year-old native of Warsaw, Ind., has just completed his 3rd year as head coach at South Carolina after 7 years as assistant coach at Michigan State.

Stevens was named "Coach of The Year" in the Atlantic Coast conference after his team posted a 15-12 record the past season.

Parrack was the 5th head basketall coach at Oklahoma since the Sooners began the sport in 1907.

Barnett's Hook Gives Pipers ABL Victory

Cleveland (AP) — A 20-foot hook shot by Dick Barnett with 5 seconds left won for the Cleveland Pipers 116-114 Wednesday night over the Kansas City Steers in a best-of-5 American Basketball League championship series in which the Steers lead 2-1.

Barnett kept the ball for about a half minute before making the winning field goal to cap a rousing final quarter in which the score was tied at 105 with 5:02 left, at 110 with 2:44 left, and at 114 with 57 seconds remaining.

NU THINCLADS TO COMPETE IN TEXAS RELAYS

Cornhusker track coach Frank Sevigne will take 4 University of Nebraska relay teams to the Texas Relays at Austin this weekend.

The Cornhusker shuttle hurdle team, which won this event at the Kansas State Indoor Relays in :29.7, one-tenth of a second off the K-State Fieldhouse record, has been invited to compete in this event.

Other Nebraska teams, which will be running the events for the first time this spring, include:

440-yard relay — Fred Wilke, Steve Pfister, Don Degnan, Ray Knaub.
Distance medley relay—Gil Bego, 440; John Portee, 880; Ray Stevens, three-quarters; Mike Fleming, mile.
4-mile relay — Mauro Altizio, Portee, Stevens, Fleming.
Shuttle hurdles — Bill Fasano, Fred Wilke, LeRoy Keane, Ron Moore.

Williams Named Most Valuable

Richard McCoy, Lincoln, and Louis Burkel, Beatrice, have been named captains of the 1962-'63 University of Nebraska gymnastic team.

Most valuable team member, selected by the squad on a basis of leadership and value to the team, was Charles Williams, Ainsworth, who captained the 1961-'62 team to one of Nebraska's best seasons, coach Jake Geier announced.

Globetrotters Romp Past Stars

Cleveland (AP) — The Harlem Globetrotters opened a national tour against the U.S. All Stars Wednesday night with an 88-48 victory, outclassing their opponents all the way and engaging in their traditional floor buffoonery.

The Globetrotters held quarter leads of 24-11, 46-25, 67-36, and their scoring was well divided, with Tony Jackson's 16 points, including 4 3-point field goals, being the top effort. Clarence Wilson was next for the Trotters with 12; and Dave De Busschere of Detroit paced the Stars with 14.

Celts Rated Favorites

Boston (AP) — The return of Frank Ramsey and the home court advantage make Boston a favorite over Philadelphia in the 7th and final game in the National Basketball Association's semifinal playoff series tonight.

The teams will play at Boston Garden and the winner will play the Los Angeles Lakers in the NBA best-of-7 championship series.

The Celtics are favored to win tonight and to defeat the Lakers as well and win their 4th consecutive championship.

Ramsey, who has been out of action because of a leg injury, will bolster the Celtics' defense. He is expected to be assigned to guard either Paul Arizin or Tom Meschery, the two Warrior corner men who have been bad news for the Celtics in this series.

After a skull session and a light practice Wednesday the Celtics' perennial star Bob Cousy said:

"We won't be able to let up for a minute but if we play the defense we'll win it."

Cousy hastened to add big Bill Russell has been tremendous against Wilt Chamberlain, the Warriors prolific point-getter.

Australian Wins Prelim Tournament

Augusta, Ga. (AP) — Bruce Crampton, a rising golf pro from Australia, continued the foreign run on the Masters Wednesday by winning a preliminary tournament on the Augusta National par 3 course.

The 25-year-old blond from Sydney made excellent use of his irons and carded a 5-under-par 22, tying the record set by last year's winner, Deane Bemen. Sam Snead won the first par 3 tourney with a 231 in 1960.

Several golfers tied for second at 24.

Crampton, a former Australian open champion, birdied Nos. 1, 2, 6, 7 and 8. His round featured a 14-foot birdie putt on No. 2.

Despite his success, Crampton said he wasn't "Playing as well as I'd like to. I don't feel that I've rung the bell yet."

Crampton and 109 other hopefuls begin competition in the main tournament today. Defending champion Gary Player of South Africa scored 26 in the par 3 event.

Film To Feature Nebraska

. . . GETS 'OK'

A $500 check given to the Game Commission by the Nebraska Izaak Walton League will start the wheels rolling toward winding up a color film which will portrary the NEBRASKAland story.

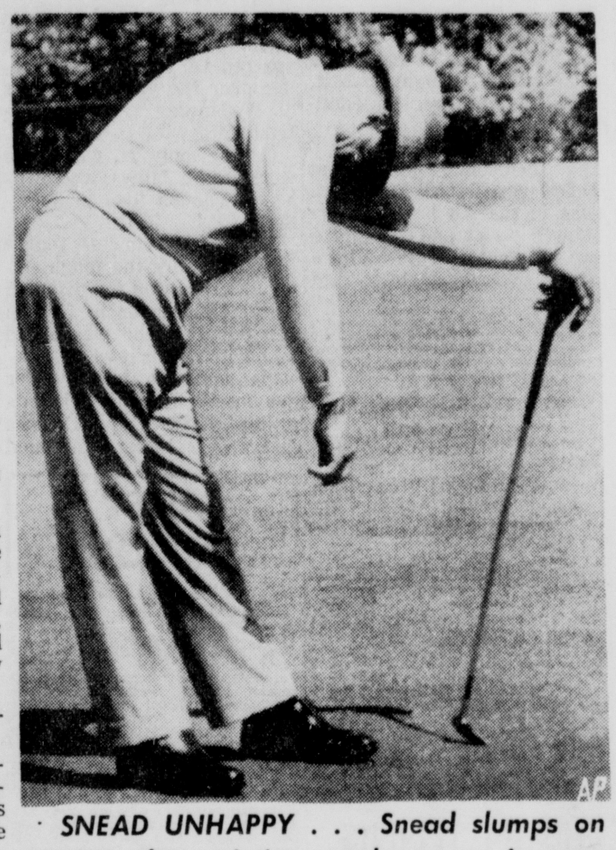

This $500 presented by the 19 chapters of the organization is the first major contribution received by the Commission to date. M. O. Steen, director of the Game Commission, received the check from Roy Carlstrom, Fremont, president of the Nebraska Izaak Walton League.

Jim Westphal, Fremont, National Director, and H. M. Bowmaster, Lincoln, chairman of the committee, were also present Wednesday when Carlstrom presented the check.

Approximately 5,000 feet of 16 mm color film depicting most of the cultural, scenic, recreational, and historical attractions of the state have already been shot. A minimum cost of $6,000 is estimated to complete the 20-27½ minute film.

When finished this movie will be available without charge to business, educational, religious, and sportsmens organizations throughout the state.

Other contributions have been made by the Commonwealth Electric Co., Henkle and Joyce Hardware Co., and Abel Investment Co., all of Lincoln, and E. J. Fujan of Carlton.

SNEAD UNHAPPY . . . Snead slumps on putter after missing a short one in practice round.

Big Field Starts 72-Hole Tourney

. . . FAMED AUGUSTA NATIONAL COURSE

Augusta, Ga. (AP) — Arnold Palmer, bold as a pirate and strong enough to choke a tiger with his bare hands, is a 3-1 favorite to whip a record field in the 26th Masters Golf tournament, starting today.

The relaxed, confident professional from Latrobe, Pa., heads a list of 110 of the world's premier amateur and pro shotmakers who tee off, starting at 8:15 a.m., on the first round of a 4-day, 72-hole battle with the Augusta National course.

The field is so large, surpassing by 8 the previous record of 102 in 1957, that the organizers found it necessary to break with tradition and send the competitors off on the first two days in threesomes, instead of the customary twosomes.

Palmer, who has won two of the last 4 championships and missed the other two by the combined margin of 3 strokes, goes off at 12:58 p.m. with Bill Hyndman III, the stylish Walker Cup amateur star from Philadelphia, and Mike Souchak, the former Duke football player.

Good Pairing

It's a good pairing for the favorite. Lyndman is one of the game's finest craftsmen. Souchak, like Palmer, loves to pulverize the ball off the tee and he'll give Palmer a target to shoot at in distance.

While wagering is illegal and frowned upon by the Masters sponsors, an Augusta bookmaker put out a line which showed Palmer at 3-1 one of the shortest priced favorites in the tournament's history. Ben Hogan, in his heyday, was seldom better than 6-1.

The defending champion, Gary Palyer of South Africa, was listed as a 4-1 second choice with Bill Casper Jr., whose phenomenal putting touch has projected him to the top of the year's money-winner list, and Doug Sanders, the man with the hurry-up swing.

Jack Nicklaus, 21-year-old slugger from Columbus, Ohio, who turned pro shortly after winning the National Amateur title last fall, is rated a strong threat at 5-1. Observers know he has the game but wonder if he has matured enough to stand the severe pressures of a test of this caliber.

An amateur has never won this prized championship, but two of them — Charlie Coe of Oklahoma City and Billy Joe Patton of Morganton, N.C. — are rated at 6-1 with U.S. Open champion Gene Littler, Dow Finsterwald, Ken Venturi and Phil Rodgers.

Hogan Is 8-1

Ben Hogan, whose 274 in 1953 still stands as the Masters record, is an 8-1 choice despite his chronic attack of putting jitters. You can get 10 for 1 if you like such masters as Sam Snead and Cary Middlecoff.

Perfect weather — fair and warm — was forecast for the weekend. The sun brought added warmth Wednesday after a brief cool spell and indications were the tournament would be played in 70-degree temperatures.

Wednesday, tournament eve was almost windless.

The 6,990-yard, par 72 Augusta course is lush and green after spring rains, with flowers which frame most of the holes in full bloom. The course is playing long but its broad, deceptive greens are soft enough that bold marksmen can go for the pins.

Palmer, determinedly whipping his game back into championship shape after a brief slump brought on by business distractions, said he was entering the tournament with no inhibitions over last year's renowned blowup.

Blew Chance

Coming to the final hole needing only a par to win, Palmer took a double bogey 6 and finished in a tie with Charlie Coe for second, one shot back of Player.

"If I worried about every hole I goofed up in a tournament, I'd have nightmares in the daytime," Palmer said. "I'd like to come up to the 72nd hole again, with a one-stroke lead."

Player is battling a recalcitrant putter which has forced him into an unprofitable winter campaign. "I change my stroke every two holes," the South African sair glumly. "But I think I'll get my touch back before Thursday."

The 1962 Masters field is a veritable "Who's Who" of the sport. The list includes every past Masters champion except two (Ralph Guldahl, 1939, and Craig Wood, 1941), 24 U.S. Open champions, 12 U.S. Amateur champions and 15 former PGA kings. There are 29 foreigners from 11 countries.

Henderson Cops Friend Invitational

By CONDE SARGENT
Prep Sports Writer

Friend—Henderson's power in the sprints and hurdles carried the Class C team to victory at the annual Friend Invitational Track Meet Wednesday.

Henderson won all but 3 running events to whip Dorchester, strong in field events, 67¼-50⅓, for the team title.

Six teams participated on Friend's grass track in sunny weather.

Veteran speedster Elmer Wall paced the winners by slamming the 100 and 220, anchoring the 880 relay team and tying for first in the pole vault.

Dorchester's Dan Tesar was even more impressive, winning the shot put, discus throw, and broad jump before a pulled leg muscle knocked him out of his specialty, the 440.

Tesar's 20-5½ broad jump was the meet's outstanding mark. He surpassed 21 feet on one jump but fouled. Tesar was Class D jump runner-up last year at the state meet.

Wall is a state meet veteran, too. He was second in the Class C 100 and 5th in the 220.

Shot — Dan Tesar, Dorchester, 47-2. 60 HH—Devon Thomas, Henderson, 8.5. 100—Elmer Wall, Henderson, 11.0. 880—Paul Adams, Fairmont, 2:15.8. New York Legislators Seek Boxing Answer

New York (AP) — Several thousand persons filed past the body of former welterweight champion Benny (Kid) Paret, 25-year-old Cuban who died after a savage ring beating, at a Bronx funeral parlor Wednesday.

At the same time, 7 New York State legislators, one a former fighter, were appointed to a special committee that will investigate boxing to decide if it should be banned in the state. Hearings will open in New York Friday.

There were new moves to end the sport in Canada and Sweden, and Rep. Abraham J. Multer, D-N.Y., called for Congress to ban radio and television broadcasting of fights. Multer said this would make them unprofitable. He called the sport "public slaughter."

The Havana Press reacted furiously to the death, accusing American "commercial interests" of causing it.

Paret died early Tuesday. He never regained consciousness after he was carried from the Madison Square Garden ring March 24, after he collapsed in the twelfth round from a beating at the hands of Emile Griffith.

More than 20 policemen were on duty outside the funeral home to prevent any disorder. One man was arrested Tuesday night when the crowd got out of hand.

Griffith was not expected to visit the funeral home because of fears his appearance could create ill-feeling in the largely Spanish-speaking neighborhood. Griffith is a 24-year-old Virgin Islander who lives in New York.

GRIFFITH NAMED TOPS IN MARCH

New York (AP) — Emile Griffith, whose flailing fists stripped Benny (Kid) Paret of the welterweight crown and his life in their March 24 title bout, was named "fighter of the month" for March by Ring magazine Wednesday.

The magazine also withdrew recognition of Archie Moore as light heavyweight champion, and moved him into 6th place among the heavyweights, where Sonny Liston is ranked No. 1.

Ring left the light-heavyweight title vacant, but named Harold Johnson, NBA champion, the No. 1 contender. Johnson meets Doug Jones of New York at Philadelphia May 12 in a title fight.

—25-DAY PROGRAM—

Race Year Opens At Fonner Today

They're off and running at Grand Island's Fonner Park today when this year's 25-day program gets underway at 3:00 p.m.

With over 600 horses in the stables and fair skies to come, the Fonner season promises to be one of the most successful in history.

A new face among Grand Island officials this year is racing secretary James Wallace of Phoenix, Ariz. Wallace formerly was an assistant secretary at Arizona's Turf Paradise where he became known for a simplified method of writing race conditions.

Wallace's assistant Secretary this year is Irving Anderson of Hoskins, Neb.

Other officials for the 1962 card are: Ralph Boomer, Nebraska State Racing Commission secretary; James Hall, presiding steward and identifier from Tucson, Ariz.; Jack Fickler, patrol and Paddock judge of Omaha; John L. Watkins, Associate Steward of Lincoln; Robert Phillips, official starter of Phoenix and announcer Dean Williams, also of Tucson.

The minimum purse at Fonner has been raised from $700 to $800 dollars for the 1962 season. The total purse distribution will reach $192,000.

Top attraction in the schedule is the "Fonner Mile" to be run May 5 for a $4,000 purse.

Fonner Park kicks-off a 142 day racing season for Nebraska carrying through Oct. 20.

Freak Homer Helps

St. Petersburg, Fla. (AP)—The New York Mets came from behind on a freak inside-the-park home run by Felix Mantilla and defeated the Chicago White Sox 6-4.

Ray Daviault, 27-year-old Montreal-born right-hander was the winning pitcher. He worked 6 innings and gave up all 4 hits the Sox collected. Herb Moford, 33-year-old right-hander, finished and ran his scoreless spring string to 13 innings.

Pender Stops Sparring Sessions For Title Bout

Boston (AP) — Former middleweight champion Paul Pender wound up his sparring sessions Wednesday for Saturday night's title bout with Terry Downes, and nobody's happier about it then Indian Willie Greene.

Greene, once a promising middleweight himself, has sparred 110 rounds with Pender over the past month. As of Wednesday he is an ex-fighter.

Greene, only 24, will go to work for his father, who owns a construction firm in Providence, R.I.

Since he once fought Downes before the tough, little Britisher won the disputed title from Pender in London last July, Greene was asked to compare the two.

"I can't see how Pender can lose," he said. "He hits a little harder than Downes and he's a better all-around boxer. I just can't see Downes beating him."

Greene battled Downes in a tuneup fight in London last May. Downes was credited with a 3-round TKO, but Greene said Terry never knocked him down or cut him.

Greene said British judges and officials didn't appreciate his style of bobbing and weaving and that the referee kept telling him to stand up and box whenever he went into a crouch. Finally, the bout was halted, he said.

Greene's appraisal of Pender being the harder hitter was surprising, since the tall sharpshooter is best known for his ability to hook, jab and move away.

Paul, an 8-5 choice to win back the title, avers that Downes' boring-in style is "made to order for me."

Bears Trade Brown To Pitt

Chicago (AP)—Ed Brown, a quarterback with the Chicago Bears for 8 seasons, was traded to the Pittsburgh Steelers Wednesday.

In return, the Bears will receive a first-round selection in the 1962 National Football League draft and another player to be named later.

The Bears, in another deal, obtained Bobby Joe Green, a star punter, from the Steelers for a 1962 draft pick. Green ranked second in the league in punting last season, with a 47 yard average.

Brown, who starred at the University of San Francisco, joined the Bears in 1954. His most successful season was in 1956, when he led N.F.L. quarterbacks with 57.1 passing average. The Bears won the Western Division title that year.

In 1961, Brown completed 46 of 98 pass attempts for a 46.9 average.

The swapping of Brown completed a deal which had sent Steeler quarterback Rudy Bukich to the Bears. The agreement for Bukich was signed two weeks ago.

Bukich enjoyed the finest season of his 7-year professional career in 1961, when he took over at quarterback for the Steelers for the injured Bobby Layne. He completed 89 of 156 pass attempts for a 57.1 average. He passed for 11 touchdowns and ranked 10th among N.F.L. passers. Brown passed for 4 touchdowns.

Bukich, who played at Southern California, joined the Los Angeles Rams as their No. 1 draft pick in 1953. After a year with the Rams he spent two years in military service. He was traded to the Washington Redskins in 1957, was acquired by the Bears in 1958, and was traded to Pittsburgh in 1960.

The Bears used Bill Wade as their No. 1 quarterback last season.

Green, who was a halfback at the University of Florida, joined the Steelers in 1960.

Yankees Figured For AL Landslide

...DETROIT, BALTIMORE, CHICAGO, CLEVELAND, FIGURED IN TOP DIVISION

By JACK HAND
Associated Press
Sports Writer

New York (AP)—Let's face it. The New York Yankees are loaded. The only race in the American League figures to be between Detroit and Baltimore for second money.

Complacency is the only enemy of the New York club which pays top dollar in salaries, plus the customary World Series slice. Manager Ralph Houk bridged the gap after the Casey Stengel regime with such success that it is safe to assume he will keep the Yanks on their toes.

The M & M boys are ready. So is Whitey Ford. The main problem for Houk is deciding between two prime rookies for the shortstop job. Tony Kubek probably will be back from the Army in mid-summer anyhow.

Detroit made a surprisingly fine run last year. The Tigers will try again with pretty much the same ball club which performed at near maximum capacity in '61.

Baltimore may be weaker due to the loss to the Army of pitcher Steve Barber and shortstop Ron Hansen. Although Barber and Hansen expect to be available for part time duty, it won't be the same.

Chicago traded away the age of Minnie Minoso and Roy Sievers for youth and speed but the White Sox hardly seem capable of making a run for the pennant.

Cleveland, like Baltimore, suffered a stiff blow when the military grabbed Jim Grant and Wynn Hawkins from the Indians' pitching staff. Rookie manager Mel McGaha is trying to patch up a workable infield and mound staff, but might be helped by the trade that brought pitcher Pedro Ramos from Minnesota.

Boston's fine rookies of 1961, Don Schwall, Carl Yastrzemski and Chuck Schilling, gave some solid basis of hope for the future although the club still lacks punch. Minnesota has punch and not too much else. The late start of pitcher Camilo Pascual didn't help.

Bill Rigney's Los Angeles Angels hope for some improvement with the help of rookies Bob Rodgers and Jim Fregesi but they still are in the backing and filling process of making a ball club.

Hank Bauer has his troubles at Kansas City with a set infield his main asset. The outfield is questionable and the pitching more of the same. Washington can count on Jimmy Piersall in center field to rescue the Senators from the cellar. (Well, at least a tie with the A's for 9th place).

Here's the way it looks from here:

1. New York
2. Detroit
3. Baltimore
4. Chicago
5. Cleveland
6. Boston
7. Minnesota
8. Los Angeles
9. Kansas City
10. Washington

Houk's main problem this spring has been to decide how to dispose of his talent. Phil Linz and Tom Tresh have been battling for Kubek's job with little to choose between them. Bob Turley's comeback after an elbow operation has been encouraging. Young Joe Pepitone has shown promise as an extra outfielder and first baseman. The regular starters again will be Ford, Ralph Terry, Bill Stafford, Roland Sheldon and Jim Coates with Luis Arroyo in the bullpen.

Mickey Mantle was given plenty of rest because Houk did not want to risk injury on the soft Florida fields. Roger Maris, warring with some factions of the press, also has been brought along slowly.

If the Yanks can be beaten, it seems here that Detroit has the best chance. The Tigers have that solid front-line pitching of Frank Lary, Don Mossi and Jim Bunning. Norm Cash, the batting champ at first base and the outfield pair of Rocky Colavito and Al Kaline give manager Bob Scheffing the long ball. Shortstop and the bullpen remain Detroit's main problems, despite the addition of Sam Jones.

Baltimore's chances depend on the availability of Barber and Hansen, to a lesser degree. Jerry Adair can do a good job at shortstop but the Orioles' pitching is thin due to the loss of Barber—who hopes to be a weekend pitcher—the appendectomy of Milt Pappas and the arm trouble of Jack Fisher. Rookie outfielder John Powell appears capable of giving Jim Gentile and Gus Triandos a hand in the power department.

Nellie Fox must bounce back to his old form if the White Sox are to be a factor. Early Wynn's progress has been encouraging but the pitching depends on Frank Baumann, Juan Pizarro, Ray Herbert, John Buzhardt and rookie Joel Horlen, plus possibly Herb Score. The Sox sacrificed home run power in deals although first baseman Joe Cunningham should take up some of the slack.

The Indians are experimenting with various infield combines after dealing away Vic Power in the Ramos trade. The pitching staff of Gary Bell, Jim Perry, Barry Latman, Dick Donovan and Ramos may not be deep enough to handle a 162-game schedule unless rookie Sam McDowell comes through big.

Boston's infield of Pete Runnels, Schilling, Edddie Bressoud and Frank Malzone is adequate but the outfield is questionable. Lack of power is the big headache at Fenway.

The Twins appear to be going with youth, having cut loose veteran Billy Martin due to the spring burst of Bernie Allen, the ex-Purdue quarterback. With Harmon Killebrew and Bob Allison swinging at those convenient fences at Metropolitan Stadium, the Twins always will be dangerous.

Rigney's Angels still are in the experimental stage. The A's are hoping for the best from outfield rookies and a lackluster pitching staff. Washington expects Bob Schmidt and Piersall to help but Dale Long has been their big spring hitter.

Ugh! Right In The Vestibule

New York (UPI) — A writer testified that former heavyweight boxing champion Rocky Marciano punched him in the vestibule of a second avenue restaurant and he couldn't help feeling it.

"When a heavyweight champion hits you, it doesn't have to be more than once," said Gene Schoor, writer and part owner of the restaurant. He testified in a pre-trial examination of his $100,000 suit against Marciano.

Marciano, also present for the state supreme court examination, denied having hit Schoor, but he admitted he knew him.

Mudcat Grant Is Available

Tucson, Ariz. (AP) — The Cleveland Indians got word that Jim (Mudcat) Grant, who has been in the Army since last fall, will be available for pitching duty on weekends.

The 26-year-old right-hander won 15 games and lost 9 last year, the best record posted by any Cleveland hurler.

A private at Fort Belvoir, Va., Grant has kept in shape working out there and pitching for his company team.

An Indians spokesman said Grant will be flown every weekend to where the team is playing.

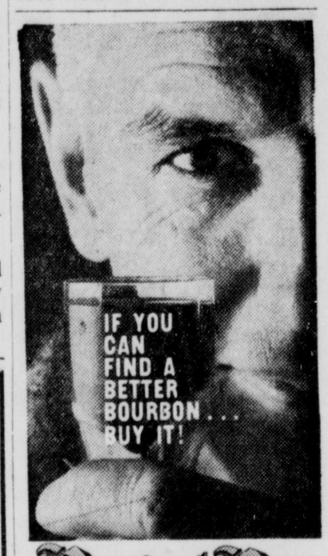

Hawks Ink Draft Pick

St. Louis (AP) — The St. Louis Hawks of the National Basketball Association, said that their 3rd draft choice, Charles Hardnett, 6-foot 8 forward, has come to terms. He joins the Hawks' first two draft selections, Zelmo Beaty and Bob Duffy, who signed last week.

U.S. Urges Conferees To Work For Quick Arms Race 'Freeze'

Geneva (AP) — The United States urged the general disarmament conference to start an immediate search for ways to eliminate safely the world's nuclear warheads and other weapons of mass destruction.

An experts' group should be organized at once to seek methods of halting the production of nuclear material for war purposes and the conversion of existing stockpiles to peaceful uses, the U.S. delegation said.

Dean

As part of this sweeping program, Ambassador Arthur H. Dean introduced a partial draft treaty looking toward complete disarmament. This would be carried out by safeguarded phases to protect the security of all nations.

Each arms cut step would be balanced, the document specified, so that at no stage "could any state or group of states gain a military advantage."

Dean also directed a firm appeal to the Soviet Union to accept a nuclear test ban treaty with adequate international controls. The Russians gave him a negative answer and accused the Americans of wanting to spy out military targets in the Soviet Union.

Dean and Soviet Deputy Foreign Minister Valerian A. Zorin clashed over which of their countries was responsible for the 4-year failure to write a nuclear test ban treaty.

Dean charged the Russians showed bad faith by conducting nuclear tests last autumn after long preparations undertaken while 3-power negotiations were in progress.

The United States, Dean said, "was astonished by this development," as was much of the rest of the world.

So great was the surprise, he explained, that it has taken scientists half a year to prepare for a possible series of American atmospheric tests.

Those nuclear blasts are due to be touched off in mid-Pacific later this month unless the Russians accept a treaty in the meantime. Zorin declared the Soviet government will never agree to an international control system to police a test ban. He said if the Americans test, the Russians will fire off another series of their own.

After the 3-hour conference session, Dean and Zorin met with about 100 women from 10 countries who demanded that there be no more nuclear tests and that the American and Soviet governments show more flexibility and agree to a general disarmament treaty.

The American contingent, the largest in this group of housewives and mothers, goes under the title of "Women Strike for Peace." The women claimed they had no political orientation.

They marched two miles from the center of Geneva to the Palais des Nations.

Dean and Zorin explained the respective positions of their governments to them. The women apparently were unimpressed.

The disarmament document submitted by Dean contains U.S. ideas on what should be included in the first treaty article. Unlike the corresponding Soviet draft calling for complete disarmament in 4 years, the American paper stressed safeguards and set no time limit.

These principles were listed:

—Disarmament must be by stages "with each measure and stage to be carried out within a specific time limit."

—Arms must be cut back in a balanced way so that no nation's security is endangered.

—Verification arrangements must accompany arms cut measures.

—The United Nations should "be progressively strengthened" as national armaments are reduced to enable the world organization to protect international security.

Red Chinese Editorial Backs Complete Or Partial Disarming

Moscow (AP) — The government newspaper Izvestia Wednesday night published a Chinese Communist editorial supporting Soviet proposals for general and complete disarmament but also calling for agreement on partial disarmament.

Western observers said the Chinese statement, published in the Peiping People's Daily, appeared to conflict with the Soviet all or nothing stand on disarmament.

The Chinese editorial advocated "forcing imperialism, led by the United States of America, to undertake some agreements on disarmament (for example the banning of nuclear weapons, etc.)"

Force Imperialists

"If it would be possible to force the imperialist countries to accept even an agreement on partial disarmament and to obtain guarantees that it would be carried out, then this also would be useful for the cause of peace in the whole world and we would welcome this," the editorial added.

Western observers said the Chinese appeared to be out of step with the Soviet strategy of disarmament.

Soviet negotiators have insisted on an agreement on general and complete disarmament and have tied the question of nuclear weapons to general disarmament talks.

The Izvestia report of the People's Daily editorial was the first mention in the Soviet press from any Communist source of the idea of partial disarmament.

But, Western observers tended to doubt Izvestia's publication of the Chinese proposal indicated any softening in Soviet disarmament policy.

They noted that a Tass agency summary Tuesday made no mention of this section of the editorial. The Soviet Communist Party organ, Pravda, also carried no report on the Chinese editorial.

The Chinese are known to have been bitterly opposed to any disarmament deal in the past. Their line has been that the West would never agree to disarm, anyway.

The editorial Wednesday was the second one from the People's Daily published here in the last two days.

Tuesday, Pravda reprinted the text of an editorial that appeared to repudiate chairman Mao Tze-tung's previous economic policy of "the great leap forward," and to adopt a "step by step" approach.

Vindication

Observers noted the obliquely worded editorial appeared to vindicate Russian criticism of the ambitious Chinese plans for intensive industrialization.

Ths would indicate Moscow and Peiping are now in agreement on China's domestic policy.

The question remained whether this indicated any rapprochement on other issues.

Omahans Appeal Robbery Convictions

Two Omaha residents who were sentenced to 5-year terms in the State Penitentiary on robbery charges asked the State Supreme Court to reverse the Douglas County District court decision finding them guilty of the charges.

Homer C. Smith and Louis Wilson were charged with the robbery on June 24, 1961, of William A. Roundtree, an airman stationed at Offutt Air Force Base.

The cases were consolidated in court action.

Woman, 21, Only Cut; Vehicles Demolished

A 21-year-old Lincoln woman suffered only a cut finger, head bump and a backache when the car she was riding in and a semi-trailer collided at Emerald, the Nebraska Safety Patrol said early Wednesday.

Both the car and the truck were "demolished," the patrol added.

The injured woman, Phyllis Westman of 935 So. 37th, was riding with driver Sharon Meyer, 20, of Rt. 6. The Meyer car pulled onto U.S. 6 and met the westbound truck, NSP said. Richard Rieger, 26, of Beaver Crossing was operating it.

New $200,000 Poultry Complex Planned At NU

A change in the system of poultry management and the slow crumbling of its 50-year-old poultry houses are causing the University of Nebraska poultry department to plan a new $200,000 complex at the College of Agriculture.

The university is calling for sealed bids on 12 assembled framed buildings. The bids will be opened Thursday, April 12, at 2 p.m., at the purchasing office in the Administration Hall.

One bid is being asked for all the work involved, including general contract, mechanical and electrical wiring work. Financing will come from the Ag College's share of the state institutional building levy.

Dr. John L. Adams, chairman of the poultry husbandry department, said the 12 buildings, all one-story and ranging in size from 30 to 50 feet in width to 60 to 200 feet in length, will be placed on 5.4 acres of land on the north edge of the Ag College campus.

POULTRY BUILDING . . . one-story structure slated at NU.

Nebraska News

The old poultry plant consisted of 112 buildings—40 of which were 8 by 10 feet in size—and was located on 20 acres of land north of the present Tractor Testing Laboratory. Most of the buildings, many of which are now crumbling from age, were first erected in 1915.

Dr. Adams said the old poultry plant operated on the outdoor system of poultry management, which allows the chickens to roam about in the yard. He explained the indoor system, which confines the chickens to a small area, produces better layers.

"Instead of the chicken using its energy in moving about out-of-doors, the fowl now uses the energy for producing eggs," he said.

Among the features of the new poultry complex will be the management house which will experiment with the water-pit system of dropping disposal. Under this system, first introduced by the University of Nebraska, the droppings of the fowl go through grates into 3-feet-deep water-filled pits. These pits, Dr. Adams said, need to be cleaned only every two years.

Other buildings, designed for a capacity of 9,000 layers and 4,000 turkeys, are: an egg processing and chick-starting lab; a feed house with leg-type elevator and mixer for experimental mixing of feed; four brooder houses arranged with a series of pens; experimental house for studying nutrition, physiology, and genetics; turkey breeding house for studying nutrition of birds during breeding season; and turkey brooder and rearing house.

Milo Storage Policy Change Said Possible

Washington (AP) — A Nebraska farmer said Wednesday the Agriculture Department has assured him it will consider changing its policy on milo now stored on the farm.

T. C. Kennedy of Newman Grove, Neb., after a 30-minute meeting with Undersecretary Charles S. Murphy, said:

"We had a real fine meeting. I received a lot of assurance. He said they would consider changing the milo policy."

Kennedy, connected with an on-the-farm storage group in Nebraska, said he is concerned over department orders to pull in the 1958-59 milo which is now stored on farms. He said these orders were to be effective April 1.

The Agriculture Department now has 319 million bushels of milo in commercial storage, Kennedy said, and only 3 million bushels stored on the farm.

Kennedy also said he discussed the situation Wednesday with Rep. W. R. Poage, D-Tex., second ranking Democrat on the House Agriculture Committee.

Fremont School Issue Planned

Fremont (AP) — June 4 has tentatively been set as the date for a bond election to provide financing for construction of two elementary schools.

Construction cost of the two new schools is estimated at about $450,300.

The school board set the tentative date after hearing a report on an expected increase in enrollment.

Stock's Decline Nears 1962 Lows

New York (AP)— The almost-unbroken decline in the stock market for the past two weeks continued Wednesday as the Dow Jones industrial average slipped beneath the 700 level and neared the 1962 lows.

A rally has always developed so far this year from the vicinity of the Dow 690 and that's what Wall Street is hoping for.

The Dow industrials fell 3.72 to 696.88, a fairly moderate drop.

Motors, chemicals and selected issues advanced in the morning and the averages at noon were slightly higher.

The rise petered out, however, and traders unloaded when they saw that, once again, the list didn't have any real upward drive.

Motors wiped out their gains and closed generally lower. The chemicals were mixed at best, with Union Carbide off 2 and Du Pont up ¼. The top three steelmakers lost fractions.

Rails, oils, tobaccos, drugs, mail order-retails, aerospace issues, electronics, airlines and most nonferrous metals declined.

Despite the late tape, volume was 3.29 million shares, off a bit from Tuesday's 3.35 million.

Of 1,297 issues traded, 669 fell and 352 rose. New highs for the year totaled 27 and new lows 154.

The Associated Press average of 60 stocks dropped .90 to 254.50 with industrials off 1.50, rails off .70 to a new low for the year and utilities off .10.

Eleven of the 15 most active stocks declined, one advanced and three were unchanged.

Prices also fell on the American Stock Exchange.

Corporate bonds advanced. U.S. government bonds posted sharp gains.

AP COMMODITY INDEX

New York (AP)—The Associated Press weighted wholesale price index of 35 commodities advanced to 163.83.

Previous day 163.32, week ago 164.34, month ago 164.59, year ago 163.93.

Low	163.32	160.78	159.76	165.93

High Court Studying Disputed Auto Tax

The State Supreme Court retired late Wednesday after hearing conflicting arguments in the test case before it concerning the constitutionality of a state auto tax law.

A decision by the high tribunal is not expected until at least the latter part of this month.

At issue is the assertion by Atty. Gen. Clarence Meyer that LB489, passed by the 1961 Legislature, is unconstitutional on the basis that it gives an unfair tax benefit to automobile dealers.

The law provides that a dealer report all cars on hand Jan. 1 of each year for taxation, but also allows him to receive credit on his ad valorem tax assessment when a car is sold for the remainder of the year.

Meyer filed the test case against Adams County Assessor Roscoe E. Story, representing all county assessors, and Randolph Oldsmobile Co. and Mowbray Buick-Rambler, Inc., Lincoln auto concerns.

'No Tax'

"There is no tax if a car is sold in January," Meyer said. "If a dealer sells them all in January, he doesn't pay a dime in taxes for any vehicle he sells all year."

He contended that the law is in violation of the state constitution because it grants a "special privilege" to one group and because it does not spread the burden for a proportionate share of taxes.

"I do not feel the Legislature can exempt any group of persons from paying their proportionate share," Meyer said. "I think that LB 489 is totally unconstitutional and that the court should strike it down."

Arguing for the constitutionality of the law was Jack Devoe of Lincoln, counsel employed by the State Automobile Dealers Association.

Devoe charged that the law did not violate the constitution because the dealers do pay a proportionate amount of taxes on automobiles assessed during the time that the automobiles are in their possession.

"We are not faced with a legislative intent to release dealers from the tax liability since they do pay the taxes," he said. "As long as they pay their proportionate share, it is within the provisions of the constitution."

Devoe's argument was questioned, however, by acting Chief Justice Edward F. Carter Sr. and Justice Fred W. Messmore. Messmore said that in some respects it does appear the dealer is being favored by the law.

Ted Sorensen Lauds Lincoln For Schooling

Ted Sorensen, the former Nebraskan who created quite a stir last year by criticizing his home state's educational systems, says "no one could have received a better education than was given to me by Sheridan School, Irving Junior High and Lincoln High."

He made the observation in a letter to the editor of the Irving News, acknowledging the receipt of a copy of the school paper's Jan. 17 edition carrying a story about Sorensen's being named by the U.S. Junior Chamber of Commerce as one of the nation's 10 outstanding young men.

Sorensen, who grew up in Lincoln and was graduated from the University of Nebraska, is special counsel to President Kennedy and long has been one of Kennedy's closest associates and advisors.

In his letter to the Irving editor, Sorensen said he works everyday "with men who receive their training at some of the most famous private schools in the country," but said none could have received a better education than the Lincoln schools offered.

"One of the great attractions for me at Irving was the library, which taught me that there were lots of books to read even more interesting than those I had to read for class," he wrote.

Sorensen's widely-publicized speech in which he referred to Nebraska as an "educationally-depressed area" was given last July at a ceremony in McCook honoring the memory of the late Sen. George W. Norris.
